ICE OFF ROOF KILLS WOMAN

Walshes' Wash Day

Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh engage in a busy job of bathing their three sets of twins at their home in Avalon ave., Quincy Point. The youngest twins, Kathleen and Kevin, 4 months, get first attention. Others awaiting their turn are William and John, 28 months, and Michael and Maureen, 16 months. The busy parents are both World War II veterans.

Atom Bomb Test in Arctic Now Planned

THE U. S. AIRCRAFT CARRIER MIDWAY ON PATROL DUTY IN THE MEDITERRANEAN
Several Members of Vessel's Crew Missing in Boat Mishap After Riviera Party

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17—Explosion of an atom bomb over icy wastelands of the Arctic region is being planned by the Navy in the near future, The Examiner learned today.

The Arctic atom blast will follow Operation Sandstorm, the secret series of atomic experiments the Navy has scheduled at Eniwetok Atoll within a few months.

The Navy Office of Public Information on Terminal Island said it had no comment on the reports of an Arctic experiment.

Both the Navy and the State Dept. expect a bitter official protest by Russia upon announcement of the Arctic atom explosion.

An Arctic experiment will give nuclear scientists a long-awaited opportunity to study an atom blast over and on snow and ice-bound terrain.

With the experiment, scientists will be able to determine effects of atom explosions under almost any conditions. Atom bombs will have been exploded in the air, on land, under water and over snow and ice.

It is expected that the Arctic experiment will be conducted under the same secret conditions as the forthcoming Operation Sandstorm. There probably will be no foreign observers or newsmen on the scene of the Arctic explosion.

Meanwhile, the USS Curtis, a former Navy seaplane tender, converted at Terminal Island into a floating atom laboratory, has sailed for Eniwetok and the atomic experiments.

By the end of this week, virtually all Navy personnel being transferred to the South Pacific atoll for the test will have been completed.

Orders have been given to Navy intelligence officers in Honolulu to confiscate all cameras belonging to sailors—other than official photographers — who are sailing west from Pearl Harbor on any ship.

Launch Off Carrier Upsets, Fear 8 Lost

HYERES, France, Feb. 17 (INS)—One officer and seven men of the United States Navy are missing and feared drowned today in the sinking of a tender from the aircraft carrier Midway of fthe French Riviera near Hyeres.

The tender crashed into a breakwater and sank while carrying between 160 and 200 of the Midway's personnel back to their ship after spending the evening at the Hyeres Casino.

The captain of the Midway signalled the chief of staff of the Mediterranean command saying that a preliminary check indicated the loss of life was not heavy.

A thorough investigation is under way.

Initial accounts of the early morning mishap had said possibly as many as 40 men were lost and one report had it that at least 15 bodies had been recovered.

160 ABOARD

Some 160 to 200 men were aboard the launch when the accident occurred at 2 a. m. at the harbor exit off Hyeres.

Many small craft rushed to the scene to pick up survivors to return them to the midway or take them ashore for treatment of injuries.

A rollcall was ordered aboard ship and at points to which survivors were taken in an effort to determine the exact number of missing sailors.

A French officer at Salins D'Hyeres naval base said:

"At the request of the commanding officer of the Midway all radio-telephone communications between Les Salins D'Hyeres and the Midway have been suspended.

"As soon as possible the commanding officer of the Midway will contact the United States embassy."

CRAFT TORE OPEN

"I am a French officer in charge of a naval base, but I have no authority to speak of an accident affecting the crew of a friendly ship."

The craft filled rapidly with water after it was torn open at what was described a part of concrete breakwater.

The tender struck the object as the men were putting out to return to the midway, now based in the Mediterranean, following a special party in their honor at the Hyers Casino.

U. S. Liaison Officers Seized in North Korea

SEOUL, Feb. 17 (AP)—The U. S. Army reported today two of its liaison officers were manhandled and placed under temporary arrest at Pyongyang in Soviet occupied North Korea. They were trying to watch a parade of the newly disclosed North Korea People's Army.

They are Maj. Daniel G. Costello, Imogen, Ia., and Maj. Richards C. Biggs, Berkeley, Cal.

2 Overcome, 12 Flee Walpole Fire

WALPOLE, Feb. 17—Two women ove rcome by smoke were rescued and three children and nine roomers were driven out toda y when a three-alarm fire destroyed a three-story lodging house in Lewis ave., with a loss e stimated at $15,000.

Overcome and given first aid at the scene before removal to Norwood Hospital were Mrs. Beatrice Trumpolt, 45, wife of Norman Trumpolt, owner of the house, and Mrs. Trumpolt's mother, Mrs. Fern Moore, 65.

The Trumpolts' three children, Mary, 16, Donald 15, and Anita, 4, were carried to safety by police and firemen, while the nine roomers made their way to safety unaided.

Mr. and Mrs. Trumpolt were asleep when they were awakened by the cries of their pet dog, "Trixie." They discovered flames roaring up from the ground floor to the second and third floors and ran through the house to give the alarm.

They then rescued "Trixie," left locked in the kitchen, where the blaze is believed to have originated from a short circuit in the electrical wiring.

By the time firemen arrived, Police Sgt. Timothy A. Cullinane and Patrolmen Leo J. Delaney and Joseph J. Burke had evacuated most of the roomers down a rear stairway.

The flames mushroomed to the roof in the front part of the house, but were unable to break through the heavy slate roof and jack-knifed down through the rear of the house.

Striking Cabbie Slain on Street

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 17 (AP)—A 28-year-old taxicab driver—one of 1100 on strike against the Yellow Cab Co.—was shot and killed on a downtown street corner early today.

Police Inspector Edward Maas said the victim was Louis E. DiLenbo.

Witnesses, including several other company drivers, were quoted by Maas as saying one shot was fired from a passing taxi into ing at the corner.

Beth's Court Visit Reforms Girl, 12

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP)—A 12-year-old girl in the Tower Bridge juvenile court on a charge of waywardness suddenly recognized one of the court's visitors today. The child clung to her mother, pointed to the visitor, and wailed:

"Whatever will she think of me? I'll never be naughty again."

The visitor was Princess Elizabeth.

Quads Given 'Excellent' Chance for Survival

LATROBE, Pa., Feb. 17 (AP)—The three-day-old Zavada quadruplets—a boy and three girls—were doing "just fine" today. Their physician said their chances of surviving were "excellent."

Mrs. Zavada, who gave birth to the babies by Caesarean section early Sunday, was still weak, although doctors reported she was "doing well."

RECOVERING?—Dean Homer, 3, of Joliet, Ill., plays in snow outside his home 11 days after suffering a skull fracture in an automobile accident. The child's parents refused to permit medical care. They placed him in hands of a "faith practitioner."

Ice Sliding Off Roof Kills Widow in Lynn

"Tinker" and his mistress, Mrs. Eva B. Chase, 74, Grover st., Lynn, went on their last morning walk today. The little Scottie, sniffing the first scents of spring in the air, rooted around in the melting snow on the path alongside his home. His excitement about some little object bared by the thaw attracted the attention of Mrs. Chase, a widow, who bent over to watch her pet in his frolic.

At that moment, a v-shaped 150-pound mass of ice ripped itself loose from its perch in the angle formed by the roof and a gable window and plunged point down.

It struck Mrs. Chase on the head.

The rumble of the loosened ice brought her grandnephew, Gene Balser, 18, from the kitchen.

He found his great-aunt unconscious, Tinker staring mournfully at her.

At Lynn Hospital, where Mrs. Chase was sped by police, she was found dead of head injuries.

A native of St. John, N. B., Mrs. Chase had come to Lynn 50 years ago and had worked in a dry goods store until 1933. She was a member of the Washington Baptist Church.

In addition to her grandnephew, Mrs. Chase is survived by a brother, Clarence Lockhart, Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, and a niece, Mrs. Ivy Thornton, Lynn.

Life of 'Modern Cinderella'

Bobo's Charm Won Her Girlhood Friends

By CHARLES FINSTON
Copyright, 1948, Chicago Herald-American

Four years after returning to their native Lithuania, Julius Paulekiute and his wife, Eva, began yearning to taste once more the glorious freedom of America.

Whenever they reminisced of their days in the land of golden opportunities, their taffy-haired daughter Jievute—the Cinderella who 23 years later was to become Mrs. Winthrop Rockefeller—listened with rapt attention.

She was only 4 years old when her parents crossed the sea to their homeland, so her recollections of America were dim. Nonetheless, she was enthralled by the romantic lure of this country. Her sister Isobel was equally enthusiastic.

Following is Chapter 2 of the true-life "Cinderella" story of Barbara "Bobo" Rockefeller, daughter of a coal miner and now wife oil heir, multimillionaire Winthrop Rockefeller.

But Paulekiute was not so sure. He had a farm worth $3000 in the Baltic community of Kelvarija, 20 miles southwest of Kaunas, and that was no mean estate for a mere peasant.

FINE TIPPED SCALE

Then one day Julius was fined $50 for failure to participate in volunteer all-night police duties in the village. His wife insisted he had been unfairly penalized, and said she was in favor of packing up and going to America.

Paulekiute sold his farm for $2000 and took his family to Chicago, traveling by way of Canada. They settled in the "back of the stock yards" district.

The girls enrolled in Healy Elementary School in Chicago with Jievute, who had changed her name to Eva, entering the fourth

Rockefeller, Bride On Motor Trip

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17 (INS)—Winthrop Rockefeller and his bride of four days were reported motoring through Florida's picturesque keys today. Friends of the millionaire benedict and his pretty blonde wife said that "Bobo" had expressed a desire to visit the keys.

The Palm Beach informants admitted they were just speculating, inasmuch as Rockefeller and his wife have successfuly evaded newspapermen for two days.

The newlyweds are expected back in Palm Beach to attend a party Saturday night.

$7065 Packard Theft Trial Opens

Harold J. Beeker, 36, of Linden st., Needham, former assistant credit manager of the Packard Motor Co. of Boston, appeared before Judge Thomas H. Connolly today in Brighton district court for hearing on a charge that he embezzled $7065 of the company's funds.

Becker, who pleaded not guilty to the charge last Jan. 27, when he was arrested, was granted a continuance at that time until today to permit his attorney, Frank J. Orfanello to prepare a defense. Since that time he has been free in $2500 bail furnished by his mother, Mrs. Emma Becker.

Atty. Joseph Rooney, counsel for the company, presented 11 witnesses, one of them a woman, as the hearing opened. Harry F. Edwards, of Arlington, credit manager of the company, was the first witness called.

Becker, married and the father of a 14-year-old daughter, was charged with converting $7065 of the Packard Company's funds to his own use between Oct. 31, 1945, to Sept. 30, 1948. He left the employ of the company Oct. 1, 1946.

Falling Ice Injures West Roxbury Man, 75

Calling on Woman, Man Falls to Death

Thomas Doonan, 41, of West Newton st., Back Bay, plunged down a flight of steps to death today while paying a call on a 33-year-old Revere woman at her Dolphin ave. apartment.

The victim was the stepson of Sgt. Donald Fitzpatrick of the Warren ave. police station, whose wife made the identification.

Questioned immediately was the woman, a second-floor occupant, as well as other occupants of the house.

Sgt. William Gannon of the Revere police, in charge of the investigation, said the victim first rang the bell of the Revere woman without results but later was admitted to the lower hallway by ringing the bell of another apartment in the building.

Doonan was found unconscious on a first-floor landing, a broken bottle at his side.

Taken to Revere General Hospital, he was found to have a fracture of the skull and was transferred to the Massachusetts General Hospital. He died there several hours later.

Gannon said the woman under questioning admitted that Doonan had rung her bell. She said she peered through a window and refused to admit him when it appeared he had been drinking.

Fire Destroys W. Concord Depot

A two-alarm fire today swept the West Concord depot of the Boston & Maine Railroad, a landmark more than 100 years old, causing damage estimated at $3000.

The blaze started in Zeke's taxi office, occupying one end of the old wooden structure, according to Fire Chief Harry Tuttle, from an overheated stove.

Higher Prices Seen as Slump Fades

CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (INS)—The rever sal of the downward trend in the commodity and security markets indicated today that the recent retail price reductions have run their course and that the housewife could look for higher prices. The grain market rallied sharply Monday and buoyed up the livestock and security markets, reversing the downward trend that started with a spectacular break in prices Feb. 4.

Housewives, meanwhile, benefited from some retail price reductions in food that followed the break, but experts warned that the "price war" has run its course and that food prices, led by meat, probably would bound back to new highs.

Corn futures and soybeans advanced the 8-cent daily limit permitted by the Chicago Board of Trade at one time Monday, and wheat and oats were sharply higher. The rise in the price of corn, leading feed grain, strengthened the livestock market in Chicago where hog prices soared 50 cents to $1 to the highest levels in 10 days.

Stocks on the New York Exchange registered the largest recovery in four months as gains of fractions to two or more points were chalked up for some leading issues. Sales totalled 830,000 shares, compared with 920,000 last Friday.

The recent retail price reductions effected considerable savings for the housewife over the weekend and brought back the "nickel cup of coffee" in Cincinnati, but the downward trend appeared to be short-lived.

Extension of Rent Control Assured, Solons Declare

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Senate banking committee unanimously favors extending rent controls 14 months with some changes. The House banking committee has voted 18 to 5 to continue the existing law "as is" for one month. It would decide later about a longer extension and any changes.

But members of both committees predicted today the House and the Senate will get together on one of the two proposals—or a compromise—by Feb. 29. The present law expires then.

The Senate committee voted 13 to 0 for continuing controls through April 30, 1949.

Its bill would permit rent increases up to 15 per cent where tenants and landlords agreed on a lease running through 1949. The present law, up to the start of this year, allowed increases of the same amount in return for a lease good through 1948.

BAR DOUBLE BOOST

Tenants who already have agreed to a 15 per cent boost could not be charged another one, said Sen. Cain (R.) of Washington, chairman of a banking subcommittee on rents.

Rep. Wolcott (R.) of Michigan, chairman of the House Banking committee, said the "door will be kept open" for possible House action this month on a longer extension than the one-month plan his group voted.

He predicted controls will be continued eventually for "at least a year in some form."

The plan is to start debate in both the Senate and House next Monday—seven days before the present law expires.

OUTLINE OF BILL

Besides the rent increase provisions, the Senate committee bill also would:

1—Impose a penalty up to one year in jail and a $1000 fine on any wilful violator. This would apply, for example, if a landlord were found guilty of raising the rent before May, 1949, of any tenant who signed a lease originally intended to run only through 1948.

2—Remove controls on all dwellings which rent for $225 or more.

3—Permit the rent administrator to remove controls on rooming or boarding houses if he saw fit.

4—End controls on non-housekeeping rooms in private homes.

5—Require landlords to give a 60-day notice for eviction on any grounds except (a) non-payment of rent or (b) where the tenant has become a nuisance. In these two cases, local law would apply.

6—Permit eviction, with 60-day notice, where extensive remodeling or alteration to provide more dwellings is planned.

7—Remove bans on use of scarce building materials for recreation places, such as bowling alleys.

Truman Tells Women Purse Top HCL Foe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Truman advised today that women use their power over the household purse to fight the high cost of living.

Mr. Truman addressed a conference of women leaders at the Labor Department. It was arranged by the department to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the movement for women's rights.

"Women's organizations have at hand a ready weapon which they have not yet used to its full capacity—the power of the consumer," the President said.

"Women control the bulk of the nation's wealth; they certainly channel its day-to-day spending for all the things that make for better living. This is a weapon which you can use together to combat one of the enemies that now threaten us—the high cost of living."

The President told the women they have "many unfinished tasks" in their battle for civil and political rights.

Cambridge Man Hurt In Restaurant Blast

James E. Landry, 48, of Brookline st., Cambridge, a gas service repairman, was painfully burned today when fumes caused an explosion in the kitchen of Freda's Restaurant, Hanover st., North End, where he was working. The blast blew out three windows. Landry was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital with severe burns on the face and hands.

U. S. Radio Man Barred By Arabs in Holy Land

JERUSALEM, Feb. 17 (AP)—A National Broadcasting Co. correspondent said today he was arrested and tried yesterday by an Arab National Guard Court in Jerusalem.

Don Peretz Sunnyside, N. Y., said in the Palestin Post today that he was freed "on condition that I never set foot in an Arab area again."

Oxygen From Hub Saves Woman's Life

A life-saving tank of oxygen, rushed under police escort from Boston to Franklin early today, saved from death a woman suffering from a respiratory illness.

The rescue bid began when Dr. Edward DeLoma of Walpole, attending Mrs. Angelina Dellorco, 60, Hillside rd., Franklin, put in an emergency call for oxygen when he found his supply was running low.

From the Medical Oxygen Center, Commonwealth ave., Boston, driver Michael Castoris rushed the oxygen tank to the Dellorco home.

Gulls Swoop on Boats, Steal Bushels of Fish

WATCH HILL, R. I., Feb. 17 (AP)—Fishermen currently seeking the herring between Watch Hill and Stonington, Ct., wish seagulls would do their own fishing.

The gulls, impeded by unusual ice conditions in catching their own food, have found an easier way. When boats come in, they swoop down on deck loads, flying away with bushels of marketable fish.

Curley-Tobin Feud Clouds Dem Parley

With former Govs. Tobin and Curley openly at war, the Democratic state committee meets at Hotel Bellevue tonight to decide on how many delegates Massachusetts will send to the national convention in July.

Tobin, victor over Curley in mayoralty fights in 1937 and 1941, renewed the long-standing feud with announcement that he refuses to be a member of any slate of delegates that is headed by the present mayor.

This refusal obviously referred to a ticket recently issued by Curley's supporters on which the Curley name heads the slate. It followed Curley's action in urging election of Douglas MacArthur as President.

'POLICY OF DIVIDING'

"I decline to follow Curley's will o' the wisp leadership," Tobin said. "Apparently Mayor Curley is following his old policy of dividing and confusing Massachusetts Democrats.

"Presumably Gen. MacArthur is but one of a number of presidential candidates that will be proposed from time to time.

"But Massachusetts has a candidate for President in the person of President Truman.

"Mayor Curley's position as a national committeeman in no way gives him a leadership in the 1948 campaign."

BITTER SINCE 1946

Once a Curley protege, Tobin has been bitter since the 1946 fight for governor when Curley not only refused to take the stump for the Democratic state ticket but openly attacked Tobin in a speech the night before election.

Meanwhile, it was predicted that plans of State Committee Chairman John F. Cahill to send 72 Bay State delegates to the convention will be amended at tonight's meeting.

The national committee has ruled that no more than two delegates can be elected from any one congressional district. The Cahill plan called for four.

Gas Firm Goes Back to Owners

The Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates today was back in the hands of its owners after seizure by the Commonwealth in the face of a threatened strike which would have affected 3,500,000 Greater Boston users.

Gov. Bradford announced terms of settlement of a wage dispute in which the CIO union had first sought 30 cents an hour increase on an old scale of $1.15 an hour.

Final settlement was made on the basis of a 13 cents an hour boost, along with three weeks' vacation with pay for employes after 15 years' service.

By Choice Harvard Grad Is German

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Henry Noel, 27, of Princeton, N. J., and a Harvard University graduate has renounced his citizenship to live in Germany on the rations of a German laborer.

A military government officer quoted Noel as saying he had voluntarily renounced his American citizenship. He could not be reached immediately.

Noel entered the American zone of Germany last September after working in France with the U. S. Aid to France Commission. U. S. officials said that if it is established he entered Germany without authorization he will be returned to France.

Harvard U. reported that Noel was at the college from 1940 until 1943, when he was given permission to withdraw. Noel was born in Elizabeth, N. J., and while at college gave his address as East Andover, N. H.

CHICAGO BOY GREETED IN COURTROOM—Howard Lang, 12, of Chicago, who is on trial in that city for the slaying of 7-year-old Lonnie Fellick, stabbed to death in a suburban woodland, is embraced by his mother, Mrs. Alma Lang. She collapsed in the courtroom during selection of jurors.

Classmates Sob At Salem Rites For Slain Girl

A long processional of girls from St. James' High School, Salem, many of whom sobbed in their grief, several collapsing as they filed from church, attended a solemn high mass of requiem today for Beatrice Blanchard, their 17-year-old classmate, the victim of a fiendish murder.

All classes were suspended at the girls' parochial high school so the students, led by senior classmates of the slain baby-sitter, might march from the school to St. James' Church, where nearly 1000 persons assembled in devotional tribute.

The pretty girl's alleged killer, Laurence J. Reddy, 21, her former beau, was sitting in a jail cell, while his saddened bride of three months, June Moran Reddy, 19, sent her sympathies to the slain girl's parents.

The mother, Mrs. Frank Berube, was so overwhelmed by her grief she was on the border of collapse as she left the church. She cried out:

"It can't be Bea. It can't be. Poor child. Poor child."

Then, to sympathetic parishioners, she sobbed,

"I can't help it."

LYNN PALLBEARERS

Celebrant of the mass was Rt. Rev. Michael J. Coffey, pastor. He was assisted by Rev. Leonard McMahon, deacon, and Rev. John Connor, subdeacon.

Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Salem, where the commital service was read by Fr. McMahon.

Because St. James' High School students are entirely girls, pallbearers wer students of St. Mary's High School, Lynn. They were William Sirois, Donald Griffin, Robert Harris, James Tobin, Harold Fellows and Ray Parlee.

There were open expressions of grief from the large throng of mourners as the casket was borne from the church, several of the Blanchard girl's classmates fainting, several others requiring the help of steady arms.

Attending the rites were her father, Frank Blanchard; her brothers, Andrew, 15, and Norman, 13, and her step-sister, Mrs. Loraine LeJour.

BRIDE IN SECLUSION

Meanwhile, bearing her own burden of grief, Reddy's girl bride was in seclusion with friends again after a brief visit to Salem jail, where she wept as she pledged her loyalty to the husband who will be tried for murder.

Too ill after the jail visit to submit to an interview, the young bride asked her father to make the simple announcement. The father said:

"My daughter is terribly ill over this whole affair. She is unable to tell her own story now.

"We ask anyone interested to bear with us in these hours. Only a father and mother and a girl in like circumstances could understand our sorrow.

"She is to remain loyal to him."

The visit to the jail by Reddy's bride, whom he married a month after the Blanchard girl had rejected him, was a surprise. Earlier in the day it had been stated she had left Salem and would remain away several days.

GIRL HACKED TO DEATH

Only a few hours before the visit, Reddy had pleaded innocent in Salem District Court to the charge of murdering the baby sitter. He was held without bail by Judge George B. Sears for hearing March 12.

Beatrice Blanchard was beaten and hacked to death in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Oppenheim, Loring ave., Salem, while their son, James, was asleep upstairs. The Oppenheims discovered the tragedy on returning from a local theater.

MRS. DORIS SEARS
Asks Police Protection

War Widow Asks Cops Find Poison Penman

Roxbury police today sought to track down the sender of a series of threatening letters that for several days have brought terror to Mrs. Doris Sears, 26, of Creighton st., Roxbury, a war widow and mother of two young children.

The young mother, whose husband died of war wounds at the Brighton Marine Hospital in 1945, called in Roxbury Crossing police on receipt of the latest letter—spelled out in newsprint and carrying a picture of a body being carried out of a house. She said the earlier letters also had been assembled from newsprint.

Lt. James McLaughlin and Sgt. Eldred Adair of the Roxbury Crossing Station took over the threatening notes.

"At first I thought it might be the work of cranks," the mother said. "But I don't have any enemies I know of and I fear mostly for the safety of my children."

A year ago, police were called to the house to eject an intruder who climbed a rear porch and entered the Sears home through a window. Police found him asleep on a couch and arrested him on a charge of drunkenness.

At court time, Mrs. Sears declined to prosecute. She said the intruder, a 30-year-old Brookline man, was an ex-suitor. Police said today they have no reason to believe there is any connection between the earlier break and the threatening notes.

Helen Broderick's Mother Is Dead at 84

NORTH WILDWOOD, N. J., Feb. 17 (INS)—Mrs. Emma Broderick, mother of Helen Broderick, stage, screen and radio comedienne, died in Surf Hospital, following a stroke. She would have been 84 today.

Mrs. Jacob Stern, a neighbor, said she had spoken to Miss Broderick at the actress' Hollywood home, informing her of her mother's death. Because of illness, Miss Broderick will be unable to attend the funeral.

Cape Area Is Saved by Ice Shift

PROVINCETOWN, Feb. 17—A welcome shift in the wind and rising temperatures today dissipated a 35-mile square ice pack that ground and crunched its way across Cape Cod bay with the threat of a $1,000,000 disaster.

In Provincetown, Wellfleet and Truro, Coast Guardsmen, police and volunteers had alerted residents along the hook of the Cape in fear the tide at dawn would sweep 20-foot-high floes inshore.

Directly in the path of the big floe as it traveled across the bay at a 12-mile-an-hour clip was the $100,000 town pier, the $50,000 fish pier, ice plants, cottages and the P Town fishing fleet, worth $250,000.

CPO TELLS OF PERIL

This is what happened, according to Chief Petty Officer Bill Costa of the Race Point Coast Guard Station, who remained on duty at town pier until long after the tide reached high just before dawn:

"The wind moderated. But, best of all, it changed from south to southwest and saved a lot of damage.

"The ice had leveled off a lot in the trip across the bay and the ice fields that reached here were only a few feet high.

"The ice did come right into the harbor and up to the shore and the piers, but did not pile up enough to do any damage that we can see as yet.

"It sure looked bad out in the bay off Dennis and Brewster yesterday, but we got a lucky break in the weather. The outgoing tide will take care of everything unless we get a real bad storm from the South."

"GROWLERS" WATCHED

Warning that a mighty shell of ice from the upper cape had broken loose and was crunching its way across the bay alerted most everyone in the area of the Cape's tip.

The fishing fleet hugged the harbor, and vessels that already were on the grounds did not try to reach port ahead of the drifting ice.

Vets' New Cash Allowances Only to Full Time Students

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Higher living allowances for veterans in school will be granted only to full time students, the veterans administration said today. Part-time students, on-the-job-trainees and others, are not entitled to raises provided in a bill signed by President Truman last Saturday, VA attorneys said.

The new subsistence payments are $75 a month for a veteran without dependents, $105 with one dependent, and $120 with more than one dependent. Rates become effective April 1, and will be paid for the first time in checks mailed on or after May 1.

The VA attorneys said the old rates of $65 a month for veterans without dependents and $90 for those with dependents remain in effect for:

1—Part time institutional training.

2—Institutional on-the-farm training.

3—Apprenticeship on other on-the-job training (for which veterans receive compensation for their labor).

4—Combination of cooperative training, in which students attend school part time and are employed part time, usually in a related field.

5—Internship and residency training.

6—Gradute training under a fellowship requiring a reduced credit course-load because of services given under provisions of the fellowship.

The agency said that eligible veterans now in school need not apply for the increased allowances. They are automatic except in the case of veterans entitled to the top rate $120.

Such veterans will be required to submit information about their dependents before payments at the new rate can be made.

Margaret Truman 24; Shuns Fete But Has Birthday Cake

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (INS)—Margaret Truman celebrated her 24th birthday today with a white-frosted cake and candles, but there was no dancing party at the White House as in former years.

White House attaches said Miss Truman decided to forego a party this year because of Lent and the cancellation of formal entertainments at the executive mansion during the worldwide food shortage.

She will join her father and mother at dinner and a few close friends may drop in later in the evening. One White House source, underscoring the recent White House denial that Miss Truman was engaged, said she has "no steady beau—certainly not one steady enough to be invited to a family birthday observance."

Judge Truman's Cigars Marked Baby's Birth

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 17 (AP)—The birth of Miss Margaret Truman was front page news here 24 years ago today. Her arrival delayed the docket of the Jackson County Court. President Truman then was a member of the court with the title of judge.

"Congratulations greeted Judge Truman when he entered the courtroom," said the Kansas City Star. "Judge Elihu W. Hayes, presiding, announced that any motions or suggestions Judge Truman might have would be agreed to by Judge H. F. McElroy and himself.

"Whereupon Judge Truman smilingly ordered a deputy to purchase for him a box of cigars. The cigars were distributed about the courtroom, and the court proceeded with its work."

The account did not give the weight of the new arrival.

Fire Chief Boutilier Under Knife for Hernia

A hernia operation was to be performed on Fire Chief Napeen Boutilier, 69, in City Hospital today by Dr. Robert C. Cochrane.

The fire chief, who lives in Chesborough rd., West Roxbury, was admitted to the hospital following an injury sustained while fighting a five-alarm fire in South Boston several weeks ago.

Palestine Plan Called Failure Without Army

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Palestine commission, predicted today that the UN plan to partition the Holy Land will fail unless adequate armed force is provided to back it up.

The commission, made up of representatives from five of the smaller members of UN, asked the Security Council to provide such a force, presumably on an international basis, before May 15.

"The commission," its members said in a strongly worded report, "has decided to refer to the security council the problem of providing that armed assistance which alone would enable the commission to discharge its responsibilities."

It is charged with ending the British mandate over Palestine and with building the foundations for separate Jewish and Arab states there by Oct. 1.

There was no immediate reaction from members of the council, the only UN body which has the power to send an army into Palestine. The members cabled the report to their home governments at once for study.

Chatham Aide Re-elected Despite Theft Conviction

CHATHAM, Feb. 17—Despite being found guilty of larceny of town funds, Robert W. Buckley today was back in his old job as town highway surveyor. He received 397 votes to 303 for Albert Kendrick and 135 for William Gilmartin.

Buckley was found guilty in lower court of larceny of about $1500 by alleged payroll padding, but appealed and was released in $500 for trial at the April session of Superior Court.

Oil Sent to Torrid Tahiti, None for Frigid Pittsfield

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Rep. Heselton (R.) of Massachusetts was burned up. In one hand he had a telegram from Pittsfield, Mass. It was from an oil dealer, a constituent.

No oil, said the dealer. Temperature 'way below zero. Lots of cold constituents.

In the other hand Heselton held a government report. It said the U. S. has just agreed to ship 1262 barrels of oil to Tahiti.

"Tahiti," snapped Heselton. "It's pretty obvious, isn't it, that they don't need oil to keep warm in Tahiti?"

"Yes," said Interior Sec. Krug.

Krug had come before the House commerce committee to talk about making oil from coal and gas. He figured, what with the shortages, the U. S. had better get started right away.

But Heselton was more interested in Tahiti.

"Maybe this oil is a great matter of world security," he said. "Maybe someone is going to attack Tahiti."

Krug said he hadn't heard of any such plans, adding:

"I think they need this to get their principal products to market."

"What is their principal product?"

"Copra," said King.

Heselton started back to his seat, but turned again to Krug and asked:

"Copra? What's copra used for?"

"It's used in fats and oils," said Krug. "We've been desperately short there, too."

"Do we eat it?"

"Yes, I think so. In some vegetable oils."

"Is it in oleomargarine?" asked Heselton.

"I don't know if it's used in oleo," said Krug. And then he explained: "I come from Wisconsin."

Members of Hub Dog Clubs Map Vivisection Bill Fight

Prominent members of several Greater Boston dog clubs yesterday appealed to officers and members of their organizations to appear at the State House next Tuesday to protest passage of the Nolen-Miles Senate Bill 264.

This bill would make it mandatory for every dog pound in the state to turn over to vivisectionists all lost animals which were unclaimed within six days.

"If you cannot be present in person," the committee said, "please mail in your protest."

Members of the special committee, all prominent executives, formed to combat the Nolen-Miles bill include Allen Wood, Hollis ton, and New England Dog Clubs; Edwin Dresser, editor of the New England Dog Magazine; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Gray, New England Scottie Club; Mr. and Mrs Charles Forrest Dow, New England Kennel Club; Mrs. Leon Rand, Eastern Dog Club; Miss Elsie W. Bird, New England Scottie Club and Mrs. C. L. Morton, Mrs. R. Francis Barrett, Jr., and Miss Edith May, of Brookline.

"All the good which humane agencies like the Animal Rescue League has done would be swept away if this bill passes," the committee said yesterday.

"We, in some of the dog clubs, are fighting to stop passage of the Nolen-Miles bill.

"This bill would take lost cats and dogs and give them to experimenters before their owners had time to find them if they should become lost.

"If you cannot attend the hearing, write in your protest to your representative, and have your friends do likewise."

12 Students at B. U. Sign Plea for UMT

The Pro-UMT committee of Boston University, made up of students representing every branch of the institution, was today circulating petitions supporting the Towe Bill for Universal Military Training.

Individual petitions addressed to the Bay State Congressional delegation and other national figures directly connected with the bill's present status were made available at desks in the basement corridor of the College of Business Administration, in the main corridor of the general college and in the student inquiry office of the College of Liberal Arts. Two petitions will be obtainable at these places throughout the week.

Action of the Pro-UMT committee was prompted by a decision of the House rules committee in Washington where it has lain neglected without any indication when it would be rejected or forced to a vote on the House floor.

In a miniature poll conducted among students 15 veterans out of 17 questioned were in favor of immediate passage of UMT.

One veteran, Richard Gordon, a senior, said:

"I'm decidedly in favor of UMT and I think most veterans are also. It's the best insurance for peace.

"It will give the youngster out of high school time to mature and make up his mind as to the career he will follow."

Students rallying to the support of UMT include leading figures of prominent citizens and scores of fraternal, civic and military organizations which have already called on Congress to pass the measure at this session.

UMT was originally recommended to President Truman by a special advisory commission headed by MIT President Karl T. Compton. Its aim has been basically approved by Gen. Eisenhower.

Telegrams urging action now and other communications in similar vein have been pouring into the offices of Rep. Leo E. Allen, chairman of the House rules committee; Rep. Christian A. Herter, committee member; Sen. Chan Gurney, chairman of the Senate armed services committee and House Speaker Joseph W. Martin.

WRONG SIDE OF TRACKS?

HINTON, W. Va., Feb. 17 (AP)—It sounded easy at first, but the Summers County court has had to give up its plan to use the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad tracks as a boundary for several voting precincts. The court couldn't figure out on which side of the tracks to classify mountaintop householders above Big Bend tunnel.

Some words fool you:

PICK means

PICK means

... but BALLANTINE always means: PURITY

Pick is a tool that's hard to use . . . pick is a synonym for "choose." Clearly, pick is a confusing word. It fools you!

But not Ballantine! There's a word that never fooled anybody. Ballantine always means PURITY, BODY, FLAVOR . . . the qualities symbolized by Peter Ballantine's famous 3-ring trade mark. Look for the 3 rings; call for Ballantine.

Cincinnati Flood Peril Routs 1000

CINCINNTI, Feb. 17 (AP) — Evacuation of some 1060 persons from low-lying areas in Cincinnati's East End began today as the Ohio river inched upward toward a predicted 55-foot crest, three feet above flood level.

With the rain-swollen stream already past the flood stage, Red Cross workers and city employes moved the furniture and other belongings of several families, and provided shelter for them in refugee centers.

Flood dangers were past for at least one neighboring Ohio river city. The river crested last night at Huntington, W. Va., 1.05 feet over the 50-foot flood stage.

Portsmouth, O., and Maysville, Ky., both with 50-foot flood stages, are due for 54-foot crests this afternoon and tonight, respectively.

With no rain in prospect, weather observers said the rising stream would cause only minor damage here.

Newspaper Reproduced in N. Y. Over Radio

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)— Facsimile newspapers written and edited by the staff of the New York Times were received yesterday at 14 New York department stores. The Times said it was the first postwar demonstration of a radio transmitted newspaper on a large scale.

Six editions were sent out at five minutes after each hour between 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. over radio station WQXR-FM. Each edition contained four pages, 11½ inches long and eight inches wide.

Here's Brand-New Power for your Buick

OUR men do a master job of keeping Buicks right up to Buick high standards. They can get everything out of them that there is to get.

But maybe you'd like the thrill of a brand-new engine in your car.

If so, we're ready to do that job too—ready to put a straight-from-the-factory engine in any Buick built since 1937.

You get an entirely new engine. It has a new carburetor and air cleaner. It has a new distributor with both vacuum and centrifugal spark control. It has new wiring and spark plugs—even a new smooth clutch that eases every start and makes driving fun.

On top of all that, this engine brings you the latest Buick features you read about—such features as precision cylinder boring and Flex-Fit oil rings, Stratoflow cooling and all the rest.

We have these engines for you right now because Buick engine production is running ahead of complete car output.

So, in less time than a good overhaul would take—and frequently at less cost—you can have a car with everything a brand-new Buick engine can give you, and a car worth much more when you're ready to turn it in.

Good deal, isn't it? Worth looking into? Drop around and let us give you all the facts and figures.

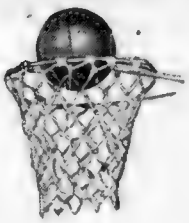
"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes."... That's why the life insurance companies and their agents are bringing you this series of messages from the nation's foremost authorities, to help you plan for happiness in the handling of your family money. (This is Message Number 29.)



The Boy who Couldn't See the Basket...

A noted authority tells how a little planning can prevent a lot of family illness... and let you get more out of life!

by MISS RUTH HOULTON
Director, National Organization for Public Health Nursing

Miss Ruth Houlton

EVERY DAY, in one out of ten American families, someone is ill enough to be in bed—causing untold millions of dollars to be lost from jobs, not to mention the inconvenience and heartaches.

And yet in many cases the trouble probably could have been prevented by proper care!

The case of Johnny Trask is a good example of how, with a little preparedness, a family can avoid a lot of unhappiness.

When Johnny first came to Milldale school (not real names, of course) he thought he might make the basketball team, because probably the basket wouldn't look fuzzy like the one at home.

When the public health nurse checked his eyes at the suggestion of his teacher, Johnny's sight as well as his feelings were saved. An eye specialist found Johnny's eyes were badly in need of attention.

His parents had put aside money for a health emergency. They were able to give Johnny medical care and corrective glasses immediately. And today, a year later, he's the star of the team!

Some Family Health Rules

To safeguard their health, every family should follow these simple rules:

1. Have regular medical check-ups for every member of the family. If caught in time, many illnesses can be prevented altogether. Or they can be checked before they become serious.

2. Get plenty of fresh air, exercise, sleep and the right kind of food.

3. Maintain a safe home: help prevent accidents by such simple precautions as keeping small children away from stoves, labeling medicines; picking up things left on stairs.

4. Avoid arguments at mealtime, when digestions are easily upset—or, better still don't argue. Happy, relaxed people are generally healthier.

5. Be prepared for unexpected serious illness—it may come in spite of your best efforts. Set aside enough money to pay for doctor and hospital if you should need them. Health and accident insurance, and group hospitalization plans, can help you do it. Remember, prevention is cheaper than medical care. But both are cheaper than illness!

How to PLAN for Family Happiness

• Planning for family health is only part of sound money planning. You'll be more likely to have enough money on hand when you need it, if you'll follow these few simple rules:

FOR TODAY... The first thing, for most families, is to take care of the larger fixed items such as rent, taxes, insurance, mortgage and installment payments, etc.

So start by adding up all your fixed items for the year, divide by 52, and set aside that amount weekly.

Also every family should have a "rainy day" fund equal to at least four weeks' income. Set aside a little every week until you have that much. Then you'll know how much you can spend for food, clothing, heat, light, amusements, and so forth.

FOR TOMORROW... We live in a changing world. Family needs and circumstances change... living costs... taxes. If you have not had your life insurance program reviewed lately, the chances are 2 to 1 that it should be brought up to date.

There are so many ways in which you can use your life insurance, that you should have the life insurance you now own checked to see if it is suited to your needs. This is a service that comes with your life insurance.

The person best equipped to help you with this is the well-trained life insurance agent. Get in touch with your agent, or write your life insurance company. INSTITUTE OF LIFE INSURANCE, 60 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y.

Strip Gals Step Lively---and Why

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17 (AP)—The striptease gals at a local burlesque theater were doing some very, very strange steps, and the stage director was calling them to task.

"You aren't in step with the music," he complained.

"We know it," they answered, "but something is hitting us, and it hurts."

Police were called in and found William C. Kim sitting in the fourth row with a slingshot. They said he was peppering the dancers with half-inch steel shafts.

Kim was jailed on charges of suspicion of attack with a deadly weapon and the dancers went on dancing.

Film Comic Plans To Take Cat Rap

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Movie comedian Alien C. Jenkins said he plans to "take the rap" for his cat, "Smiley," which was in the front seat with the actor when police arrested him for misdemeanor drunk driving.

Jenkins told police Smiley was driving the car—not he—but the officers took him to jail nevertheless. The cat's scheduled for today.

Man, 54, Burned Saving Invalid, 65

Frank Colby, 54, of Addison st., Arlington, today was recovering in the aftermath of the rescue of his companion, David R. Beattie, 65, an invalid for a year, who was carried out when flames swept the house with damage estimated at $10,000.

Colby and two neighbors, William R. Hunter and Charles M. Maguire, both of Addison st., carried the elderly invalid in a chair out through flames and smoke.

Mrs. Margaret Fame, 64, the housekeeper, also tried to beat out the flames and rescue valuables but was forced to flee.

New Sickness and Accident Benefits Include $25.00 Weekly Payment Feature

Costs Only $12 a Year—Down Payment $2.50 Pays Hospital Benefits for Accidents

The average family has an income of less than $65 a week. Because of the high cost of living, they can't save enough money to meet sudden doctor or hospital bills, in case accident or sickness strikes. The 60-year-old North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago has a special policy which gives just the kind of protection such families need. It pays $25 a week for 10 weeks for certain specified accidents and sicknesses. Also, this Premier Limited Double Duty Policy pays an additional $25 a week for 4 weeks for accidents requiring hospital confinement. Yet the total cost is only $12 a year. This new policy also has a double-indemnity feature covering travel accidents. You receive $50 a week if disabled by an accident in a bus, taxicab, street car, train, etc., and $75 a week if the accident requires hospital confinement. There is another new special feature that pays up to $25 cash for doctor bills, even for a minor accident such as a cut finger. In case of accidental death the policy pays $1000.00 cash to your family. $2000.00 if caused by a travel accident.

In addition it covers many sicknesses including pneumonia, cancer, appendicitis operation, etc., paying the weekly benefits whether confined to home or hospital.

The purpose of this new policy is to bring sickness and accident protection within the reach of men and women who do not have large savings with which to meet sudden doctor or hospital bills, or lost income. The entire cost is only $12 a year (or $12.50 if paid in convenient monthly payments of $2.50 down and $2.00 a month for 5 months) for both men and women between the ages of 15 and 61 inclusive. Between the ages of 65 and 75 the cost is only $18 a year. Protects you 24 hours a day. You collect full payments—there is no reduction of any benefits REGARDLESS OF YOUR AGE. No medical examination is required.

If you are now a member of some worthy hospitalization plan you still need this additional protection. Only a small percentage of people are confined to a hospital—and even then only for a fraction of the time they are disabled. Most people—over 80%—are confined at home where hospitalization plans do not apply. Or—they are hospitalized for a few days or a week, then spend weeks of convalescence at home before they can go back to work again. The North American Policy pays specified benefits regardless of whether you are confined to your home or to a hospital.

North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago has been in business for more than sixty years and is one of the largest sickness and accident companies. It has paid out over $43,000,000 to grateful policy holders when they needed help most. North American is licensed by the Insurance Department of the State of Massachusetts, as well as 46 other States and The District of Columbia.

Men and women who would like full details about this new policy are urged to send for a revealing booklet called "Cash or Sympathy." This booklet is absolutely free. It will come by ordinary mail without charge or obligation of any kind. No agent will call to deliver it. We suggest you get a free copy by mailing coupon to Premier Policy Division, North American Accident Insurance Co. of Chicago, 830 Broad Street, Dept. 152, Newark 2, New Jersey.

Dodge Heir Tipsy During Art Deal

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP) Maj Horace E. Dodge, Jr., Detroit motor heir, testified today he was drunk when he bought a painting from a London art dealer back in 1945.

Dealer Charles Lewis is suing Dodge for payment of 16800 ($27,200). Payment had been stopped on a bill of exchange for that sum. Cross-examined, Dodge was asked:

"Your case is that you were so drunk, that you know nothing about the purchase or giving the bill?"

"It's a bad way to put it, but it's true," he replied.

Dodge testified he was tricked into buying the painting as a genuine work of Sir Thomas Lawrence, an 18th century master.

London art authorities and the picture were in court yesterday. One of the experts testified that painting was not a Lawrence.

Saved Via Tub—The barking of a dog sent Fussy, a Persian cat, scampering up a clothes pole in Albany, N. Y., where the feline was marooned until its owners rigged up a breeches buoy-type gadget—using tub and clothesline—and baited it with food that Fussy wasn't fussy about.

Columbia, Tenn., shown in aerial view, was one of the hardest hit southern towns after the Duck river rose to 52 feet, breaking the record of 48 feet in 1902. Some 160 families have been evacuated. U. S. Highway 41, which intersects the town, looks like a Venice canal.

EUROPE HAS ASSETS

IT SHOULD be well understood by this time that the Marshall Plan is NOT a foreign relief plan, appealing to the sympathies and charitable impulses of the American people.

It is a plan to stimulate and to promote the activities of the farmers and miners, the merchants and manufacturers, the architects and the engineers, the workers and the employers of nearly a score of European countries.

The EMERGENCY NEEDS of Western Europe, and supposedly of China also, have been adequately met by a Congressional appropriation of several hundred million dollars.

And the Marshall Plan itself—as has been plainly stated in the sixteen-nation report of the Committee of European Economic Cooperation—is A PROPOSED REQUISITION UPON AMERICAN RESOURCES of at least seventeen billion dollars in the next four or five years to EXPAND EUROPEAN INDUSTRIES.

The objective is desirable, since PRODUCTION is the long-term remedy for Europe's economic maladies; and this country is of course desirous of assisting European stability and progress.

The Marshall Plan, none the less, is strictly A BUSINESS PROPOSITION and should be conducted solely as such—not because America wants to profit by it, but because it is bound to fail, and our financial contributions to it are sure to be wasted, if it is operated in the loose and profligate pattern of Lend-Lease or in the profligate and loose manner of UNRRA.

IT IS THEREFORE proper for Congress to consider what EUROPE can and will contribute to the financial structure of the Marshall Plan.

It is simply NOT TRUE that Europe is wholly insolvent and has no means whatsoever of putting itself back into prosperous business.

The report of the Committee of European Economic Cooperation intimates that billions of dollars of European capital have gone into hiding, or have fled into exile, to escape confiscation by European Socialism. Would it not be good business for Europe to ABATE ITS SOCIALISM and permit this migrant capital to go back to work in Europe?

And should there not be an inventory made of the liquid resources of Europe which can be invested in Europe's own rehabilitation? It would not be difficult to do this.

The Washington publication, "U. S. News —World Report," in its issue of February 13, has a capitulation of extreme interest. It says:

"Europe's dollar assets are almost as large as BEFORE THE WAR.

"Yet the billions in gold and dollars owned abroad are NOT to be mobilized to help finance the European recovery program."

Declaring flatly that "EUROPE IS FAR FROM BROKE," the resume continues:

"Gold, dollars and dollar investments of the Marshall Plan countries are OFFICIALLY reported at $13,662,000,000. That is the estimate of June 30, 1947 . . ."

"Other billions, variously estimated at $2,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000, are HIDDEN BY PRIVATE INDIVIDUALS, with most of this hoard in France."

AMONG THE COUNTRIES having these resources are Great Britain, France, Switzerland, the Netherlands and Belgium, of which ALL are down for Marshall Plan charities in their business development scheme.

Now, if the European countries which are to be beneficiaries under the Marshall Plan have thirteen billion dollars of available capital, why should the American people be asked to "invest" seventeen billion dollars in what amounts to a new European capitalistic undertaking and the European countries—which are to gain all the benefits and keep all the profits—invest nothing?

Why not let Europe invest its own resources, and this country—which is to be a very junior partner anyway—make a junior partner's contribution, and call it that?

I think true love is never blind,
But rather brings an added light,
An inner vision quick to find
The beauties hid from common sight
No soul can ever clearly see,
Another's highest, noblest part;
Save through the sweet philosophy
And loving wisdom of the heart.

—PHOEBE CARY.

GIVE THE ABOVE careful consideration before, in discussing somebody's wife or sweetheart. You say: "I wonder what he sees in her?"

NOTE GANDHI referred to as "the last of the great vegetarians." How about George Bernard Shaw? Incidentally, a steak and roast beef enthusiast of Chicago asks if I have noticed vegetarians almost invariably have extremely radical views on at least one other subject besides diet. I hadn't noticed it. But it is certainly true of Shaw. Then there was the Greek philosopher Pythagoras, one of the early followers of the vegetarian diet. Pythagoras also believed in the transmigration of souls.

G. B. Shaw

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Fine Comer: Napa, Cal., claims to be the only man in the U. S. A. who smokes cigars while swimming. Oliver Hardy, of Laurel and Hardy, has returned from a triumphant tour of France. Oliver has lost 60 pounds. He is probably the largest shadow of a former self in the country. He now weighs 260 pounds . . . How many books do you think have been written about Abraham Lincoln? Can't tell you exactly. All I know is that Dr. Louis A. Warren of Ft. Wayne, Ind., has 7600 different books about Lincoln!

HORSES & WOMEN: Women have a language all their own. Coventry Patmore said it was practically a hopeless task for a man to try to fathom the many mysteries of the feminine mode of conversation. I agree with him. In my policy of sparing no effort to try to understand women, I made a determined effort to understand a dispatch from Paris written by a female reporter. Among the many things that baffled me was a reference to "a conservatively frivolous suit." I imagine a frivolous suit might be a little number in watermelon red with gold buttons. Or a yellow suit with a green collar. But what a "conservatively frivolous suit" might be stops me completely. All I could figure out, after a complete reading of this Paris dispatch, was that in the spring tops in stylish females will be "oomph girls" with slim waists wearing skirts seven inches from the ground. This trying to understand women proposition is getting really tough. At times women are even harder to figure than horses.

ASKING: Query from client. Q.—Please name some celebrated thoroughbreds who were ill-tempered, nasty and hard to handle. A—My dear sir, why say "ill-tempered and nasty?" Let's just make it "temperamental." Have never seen a celebrated thoroughbred so temperamental I couldn't name a celebrated human being twice as hard to handle. Anyway, I will name as a temperamental animal, With Regards, who usually either won by three lengths or was left at the post. Then there was the great Head Play. You never knew whether he was going to stand still at the post or kick the gate to pieces. Also a speedy filly named Carolyn W., who always tried to finish second but refused to be first. Yes, sir, this quaint thoroughbred finished second in about 14 straight races. When she neared the finish, she seemed to say to the nearest horse: "After you, my dear Alphonse."

OVER THERE: Winning a beauty contest at Paris is really something. Blonde 22-year-old Yvonne Viseux was recently chosen Miss France from a line-up of 24 finalists in a French beauty competition. As a result, Mlle. Viseux will for one year get without charge, from the leading Paris beauty shops and fashion houses: Clothes, beauty treatments, handbags and innumerable other feminine accessories. She also has been presented with a 1948 automobile and a bicycle. All this and movie offers, too.

BALDNESS: Hope springs eternal in the bald-headed man's breast. And, why not? Somewhere, somebody is always claiming to be able to grow hair on bald heads. Now two Japanese professors claim that with injections of vitamin B and "other medicines" they have been able to grow new crops of hair on bald heads within three months. What the "other medicines" are is not detailed. As has always been our policy, carried on in the interests of our bald-headed subscribers, we will check on this.

"After checking your aptitude tests, your training and your experience, we suggest you send your WIFE out to look for a job!"

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1948, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A HIGH BUDGET can easily become a habit. Federal, state and municipal budgets are the products of 15 years of that habit. Certainly, it is not necessary in peacetime for the employment of more than 5,000,000 persons in the various branches of government. In many offices, they trip over each other.

Herbert Hoover

At any rate, there will be a full report on this subject, so far as the Federal Administration is concerned, in January, 1949, when Herbert Hoover's committee makes the facts known. That date was set by Congress in the original bill; it would be more satisfactory to have the facts now.

The high cost of government is appalling to those who have to pay taxes, although it may not bother the few remaining non-taxable citizens. For instance, the magazine, America, has this to say about taxes:

". . . It's a sad prospect for the reduce-taxes-at-any-price crowd, who are much more sensitive to vote-catching techniques than to the grim realities of the postwar period . . ."

THERE IS NO REASON to be contemptuous of the vote-catching member of Congress. Ours is a representative government of elected officials, all members of Congress have to be elected and therefore must "catch votes."

The intellectual or any other kind of snob who is sure that he knows what's what but refuses to submit himself or his ideas to the test of a vote, ought not to look down upon the citizen who stands the test of our representative system. We can, of course, switch over to an authoritarian system, but thus far that does not seem to be the choice of the American people.

In another editorial in America the writer indicates an emphatic dislike for the congressional system by a denunciation of Senator George, one of the most respected members of the Senate. America says:

". . . We strongly suspect, however that there is more in the Senator's remonstrance . . . than a reasonable concern for Federal economy. His is the typical reaction of a man bringing all his attention to bear on a rivers-and-harbors bill! He wants to carry on in the normal, established way. Implicit in his attitude is the position made explicit by Senator Taft: 'We are at peace with the world.'"

PRETTY CHEAP, that comment seems to me. It is answering an argument with a vicious smear. It is hurling opprobrium when logic would be more fitting. Few men in this country are more expert in its fiscal affairs than Senator George, who has devoted a lifetime to the subject.

The editorial writer of America may disagree with Senator George, Senator Taft or any other Senator, but it is certainly not his function nor his sphere in life to voice his objections with calumny. It is not only bad taste, but in the instance of both Senator George and Senator Taft, one a Democrat, the other a Republican, it is untrue. They are not devoted to that particular form of selfishness symbolized by rivers and harbor bills.

The fact of the matter is that the taxpayers in the United States desire a tax reduction. Most Senators and members of the House of Representatives who have to run for office in 1948 will vote for tax reduction. There are differences as to the amount of reduction and the form it is to take, but there is no difference as to the necessity for it. When Congress passes a tax bill, it will be passed over his head, should Mr. Truman veto. The community property clause is certain of passage, as it should be.

THERE IS NO LOGIC, no common sense, in the maintenance of wartime taxes, nearly three years after the war is over. There is no logic in the Federal Government piling up a huge surplus. There is no common sense in depriving the individual of his earnings and possible savings, while the government absorbs his earnings in taxes and by the sale of unnecessary bonds.

Certainly, a publication like America, which so strongly defends the family, ought to recognize the viciousness of making the nation dependent on the state rather than on the thrift of the parent. But thrift and savings are impossible when taxes are so high.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

(c)1948, by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17—as far as Loretta Young is concerned, that tempest about what she said or didn't say about conditions in England, is over and done with. A lot of stars I could name, might have carried on the fussin'-'n-feudin' just for the publicity. But not that gal!

Loretta Young

She's much more interested over her role in "Strange Impostor," which she is making for Hal Wallis. It's a departure for Loretta, for she plays a professor of psychology who gets involved in a murder.

I'll say this as a personal prediction: "Strange Deception," which I read when it was called "The Sin Must Be Theirs" by Jane Trimble, Mc Grudge stories, don't fail that I couldn't put it down until daybreak.

Ketti Frings, who adapted the story, made so many changes that the name has been switched, and Mr. Wallis would rather we didn't mention the original story, but so many people have read it, and knew about his purchase, it seems a little foolish.

Robert Cummings is mentioned loudly as the co-star, and I hope Hal lands him.

JUNE LOCKHART is coming back to Hollywood after all. She couldn't resist a summer in California, and so she leaves New York and "For Love or Money" on May 30 and she will make a movie when she gets here.

Our pretty little June will have the star role in "Kenny," the Louis Bromfield novel. And here is something Louis, himself, has been offered the role of the farmer by Eagle-Lion Who, I ask you, could play it better than the novelist who has made his Ohio farm a paying investment?

GOOD NEWS for Lynn Bari and Sid Luft, who just learned today that the stork will visit them in the middle of September. Lynn was doing her own announcing when she told me the news.

She and Sid separated and lived apart for awhile and she says she knows that a baby is all they need to correct their marriage and to bring them great happiness.

They lost their first baby one which was both premature and stillborn.

THOSE WHO LOOKED quizzical when George Sanders "reconciled" with his wife, then said he was off to Europe to make a movie and she would return to Hollywood, will lift eyebrows even higher now.

The picture he was to make in Italy, "Then and Now," has been called off. But George sailed Friday, anyway, for a vacation. The only part of the original plan remaining status quo is that Mrs. Sanders comes back to Hollywood, and they'll remarry when he returns.

Mrs. Sanders will be in New York to meet her unpredictable husband when he returns from his European jaunt.

MRS. MARK STEVENS, who was very bitter toward Hedy Lamarr the last time she and her husband parted, needn't have any worries that Mark and Hedy will renew that old spark.

Hedy and Billy Wilder, the well-known director, are seeing each other all the time. And Billy, let me tell you, may not be as handsome as Mark but he's a very fascinating person and most of the girls who fall in love with him, really fall.

When Hedy went on the set the other day to see Dan Marshe Dietrich spoke up and said, "I know, Hedy, you didn't come to see me, you're here to look at Billy."

I'VE BEEN SAYING for a long time that producers are going to develop new stars out of sheer necessity of not being able to meet astronomical salaries and here comes one.

Monogram is launching Theodora Lynch tall, dark and handsome singer as a full fledged star in "Street Song," and she has never played other than bits.

Let me tell you something about Miss Lynch. She was born in Connecticut but received her musical education in Italy and was lucky enough to sail on the last boat before Mussolini declared war.

Although her voice is operatic she's just as good on popular stuff, and she is also photogenic.

AS A USUAL THING, I'm not in favor of sequels, because they too often prove a bitter disappointment. But I think "Sitting Pretty" could go on, and on and on, with the antics of Belvedere, the baby sitter containing all that.

There's also what Sam Engel thinks, so 20th Century Fox has bought the sequel rights from Gwen Davenport, author of "Sitting Pretty." And F. Hugh Herbert is working on a strong adult screen play.

I certainly think Walter Lang should direct, for good as Clifton Webb is as Belvedere, much of the wonderful comedy of "Sitting Pretty" is due to Walter's handling of certain riotously funny situations.

CARMEN PANTAGES didn't look much over 16 herself at her 16th wedding anniversary party. She and Johnny Considine hosted a wonderful party at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

How well I remember their wedding. I went with Marion Davies, who was maid of honor, and my favorite doctor was an usher.

At the party, I had a long talk with Neil McCarthy. It's always so nice to see my old friend, who also was a wedding guest. Pleasant to see old friends of Johnny and Carmen who were at the wedding too. In Hollywood, few people keep their old friends.

Dennis Day sang beautifully. He brought his little bride up to introduce her. They are blissfully happy.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random:

Jack Wrather, husband of Bonita Granville, underwent an appendectomy Friday at St. Joseph's Hospital in Burbank. He is reported doing nicely.

Gloria Haley, Jack's pretty daughter, and Pen Drake have become a serious twosome.

Stuart Barnes, the New York's most playful playboy, is now taking Zsa Zsa Hilton everywhere. She's New Yorker, you see.

When Mrs. Gene Autry lunched with the Marty Gang legal office in the Brown Derby, there was plenty of buzz, buzz, buzz, but it wasn't what everyone thought. She was there to discuss business for Gene and to get some legal advice on a suit he has pending in the East.

Franciska Gaal

Franciska Gaal's husband, Dr. Frank Dajkovich, has been appointed Hungarian consul general in San Francisco. At the same time, Franciska is trying to make a comeback as an actress in this country.

Sonny Tufts, who has already lost 30 pounds, takes off for the Ojai Valley to lose 10 more before he starts "The Wranglers."

Louis B. Mayer who had planned to leave for Miami to confer with Nicholas Schenck has postponed his trip until March 5. Nick who hasn't been well is much better.

Speaking of L. B., he went to the Mocambo to the Fortnighters party with the Joe Pasternaks to applaud Richard Beavers who was once a page boy in the M-G-M studio. Richard who has a wonderful voice was thrilled.

Joan Crawford and Greg Bautzer, the John Paynes, Lana Turner and Bob Topping, Howard Hawks, and Dennie Best, and many others were at the first Fortnighters party which got off to a good start.

One of the last dates Noel Coward made in Hollywood was to see Gertrude Neisen at the Florentine Gardens. He was with Clifton Webb. Both of them are old friends of Gertie's.

That's all today.

My Boston

By Alan Frazer

LOOKING AROUND: The last Boston store with the Cobb, Bates & Yerxa sign will close its doors for good on March 27. It's on Summer st., between Kingston and Chauncy . . . Those three names were first nailed over a Boston grocery in 1871. Ever since for 77 years — Bostonian have familiarly used the nickname Cobb-Bates (pronounced Cob-Bates) . . . There were once eight stores, four in Boston, four outside. Death and the passage of years led to sale of the business in 1924 to the S. S. Pierce Company . . . With the sale, a landmark of Boston's history all but vanished, but one to be absorbed near, older landmark Cobb Bates was yesterday 30 years than S. S. Pierce, which was founded in 1831 when Andrew Jackson was President . . . One hundred and 17 years old the S. S. Pierce Boston [illegible] have been [illegible] throughout the country as [illegible] Liberty or [illegible] . . . When the old S. S. Pierce store at Tremont and Boylston was razed up Tremont st. before the war, to No. 141 near Temple pl. the company went all out to make it the best store of its kind in America . . . The tradition then was to close the doors of the old Cobb-Bates stores because the new store had its own convenient downtown location . . . But the closing of Summer st. was postponed as a service to customers harassed by difficulties in getting war-rationed food . . . Now the closing date has been set. After March 27 the three Cobb Bates & Yerxa will remain over on store, outside Boston, in suburban Belmont. It's the meat-market department of the S. S. Pierce store in Chestnut hill.

BELIEVE IT or not department. We overheard this in Harvard sq., Cambridge. One woman: "I think it's a disgrace the way those councilmen are fighting over electing a mayor." Another: "Yes, what this city needs is Plan E government." . . . My! but she's going to be surprised when she hears the news . . . Team: Mary Curley's partner in that dress shop that opens Friday on Beacon st., Brookline, near St. Mary's st., is Mrs. Helen O'Dea Cunningham of Jamaica Plain. She's the daughter of one former deputy police supt. and brother of another . . . Lounging around the Copley Plaza Merry-Go-Round has new leather banquette seats . . . And the Touraine's Sky Room a caricature of Maine thing. Druggist Curtis of Newport, R. I., has saluted us that his brother-in-law, Brooklyn's Harry McCann (like Worcester's Rear Adm. That Golden Age Of Make Believe

Don't be alarmed if your little girl talks about an invisible dragon as her new acquaintance or if your little boy says he has a knight in armor and a pirate as playmates.

It's perfectly normal for a healthy little youngster to have a vivid imagination, and it should be encouraged, not blasted with curt reprimands, advises D. A. Laird, internationally known psychologist.

If you have a child who goes around slaying imaginary monsters, you'll want to read Dr. Laird's article, "Golden Age of Make Believe," in next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine distributed with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Glass, Razor Diet Finally Cause Ache

COLUMBUS, O. Feb. 17 (AP)—Joseph H. Barkesdale, 37, claims he did pretty good for 10 years on a diet of glass and razor blades. Since 1941 he has been a prisoner at Ohio penitentiary on a more normal diet. Only recently did he complain of a stomach ache.

Doctors at prison hospital gave him an X-ray examination. They voiced amazement on finding his innards intact. Examination indicated only inflammation and ratching of the stomach and intestinal lining.

"I used to work for circuses," Barkesdale told the doctors. "For 10 years I ate about 35 light bulbs a day. I also ate and swallowed razor blades and pop bottles. I was paid $35 a week. I wanted the work because I didn't like to take to stealing again."

Barkesdale, a native of Bartow, Fla., was received at the penitentiary in 1911 to serve 20-25 years for unarmed robbery and kidnaping a couple to extort money.

How Dr. Edwards' Helps Folks Who Are Constipated

For over 40 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards, a noted Ohio Doctor, successfully relieved patients bothered by constipation and its headaches, lack of pep, dull eyes, sallow skin, with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are purely vegetable. They work gently but oh—so thoroughly! Olive Tablets pop up a sluggish intestinal tract. They act on BOTH upper and lower bowels. Just see if Olive Tablets don't give you the most comfortable, satisfactory, more natural-like bowel movements you've ever had! No griping.

Buy Olive Tablets today. At all drugstores. Only 15¢, 30¢.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Reds Say U. S. Sought Peace With Hitler

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 17 (AP)—Russia accused the United States and Britain of conducting secret talks for a separate peace with Germany in the middle of World War II.

The Soviet Union made the charge in the fourth installment of its reply to U. S. State Department disclosures of documents regarding Russian-German relations.

A statement said Allen W. Dulles, a brother of John Foster Dulles, represented the U. S. in talks with a German spokesman in 1942 which touched on the question of concluding a separate peace with Germany.

It also charged that the son of Lord Beaverbrook, British publisher, represented Britain in similar peace talks with a German representative in September, 1941.

The statement further accused Britain and France of seeking to start war with the Soviet Union in 1940 instead of fighting Germany.

Officials said this was the final round of statements before publication of captured German documents Russia claims to possess.

"From these documents," the statement said, "it can be seen that in the autumn of 1941 and also in 1942 and 1943 in Lisbon and in Switzerland, negotiations were carried on behind the back of the USSR between representatives of Britain and Germany, and later between representatives of the U. S. and Germany, on the subject of peace with Germany."

The Russian statement declared Dulles, with authority from the White House, conferred with the Germans under the pseudonym of "Bull."

It said the German representative was Prince Max Hohenlohe, who acted as Hitler's representative under the assumed name of Paule.

(Allen Welsh Dulles, former chief of the U. S. Office of Strategic Services in Europe, worked with underground forces to overthrow Hitler from 1942 on.)

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Britain described as absurd today Russian contentions the British government attempted to start peace talks with Germany in September, 1941, at Lisbon.

A foreign office spokesman said the most interesting comment on the latest Russian statement came from Max Aitken, son of Lord Beaverbrook. Aitken, who was named in the statement as the British intermediary at Lisbon, said he was on flight duty at an RAF base in England during that period.

Easter Fashion Parade

Carnegie Rejects 'Hippy' Look

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

THE WOMAN WHO OWNS a Hattie Carnegie original often refers to it as "my little Carnegie suit." And she uses the word "little" advisedly. For there is always a feeling of slimness, lithesomeness, diminutive elegance about a Carnegie suit . . . and it has nothing to do with any skimpy cut of silhouette. Perish forbid!

Whether the skirt is pencil-straight or swirling-full (the either-or fashion privilege this season) . . . there is still the same old feeling of "little" about it. For usually the jacket hugs the figure in astute fit . . . is never overpowering to the rest of the costume . . . and possesses just enough length to make it comfortably chic to wear. That's part of the Carnegie finesse . . . this designer's signature . . . her inspired understanding of women.

As part of the EASTER FASHION PARADE . . . your guide to your own Easter wardrobe . . . these two suit silhouettes contributed by the incomparable Carnegie as the way she would like to see women look on that wonderful Sunday . . . reflect not only the trend of the times, but hint subtly at fashion futures. As many other designers are doing . . . Carnegie divides her fashion allegiance between the slim and the full silhouette. Either is correct in her Easter 1948 book. Only remember, it is a slimness that doesn't even hint at pre- and during-the-war slimness.

The very special plus in any Hattie Carnegie is that it gives more than chic to the woman who wears it. However advanced in its design . . . and the bulb silhouette is a fashion-to-come-and-be-copied . . . it never gets in the way of the wearer. You don't just look at the dress or the suit . . . you look at the woman-in-the-dress-or-the-suit . . . which should meet with every distinctive women's approval.

Which boils itself down to a very simple sentence: the best-dressed woman is not the over-dressed woman on parade, but one whose garb is richly understated.

Tomorrow's designer: JANE DERBY.

I HAVE two loves this Spring: I believe in the slim, slinky skirt quite as much as the swirling one. But I DON'T like anything that looks "hippy." As you can see from the picture of my favorite "whirlwind" skirted suit, which I've done in tiny black and white checked wool, the fullness doesn't begin until just about the hipbone, and even then the cut of the garment is so calculated as to leave the waist and hips free of any suggestion of bulkiness.

The rounded flare to the jacket is achieved also by cut and not by padding of any sort, and both jacket and skirt are banded with milliner folds of the fabric with checks placed on the bias. The jacket is collarless, giving opportunity to do interesting things with a blouse, such as the white faille with which it is shown, the huge butterfly bow wound round with a pearl choker. It's a suit that travels well, does year 'round duty, and is youthful without being too young for the woman past her first youth . . . all of which influenced my choice of it to lead the Easter parade, worn with a stiff-brimmed white straw sailor hat, white short gloves and black pumps.

My favorite slim-skirted suit is in golden tuft wool . . . a color I particularly like, deep beige with a golden cast that teams beautifully with turquoise, which I've used in the beige, brown and turquoise "bluebell" print blouse and in the veiling of the profile hat of golden tuft shantung straw.

I call this my "bulb" silhouette. Each of the four "petals" that round the hips conceals a pocket opening at the side. The blouse has a soft fold jacquard neckline fastened with one of my original semi-precious pinks, no two of which are alike. The brown suede gloves and brown pumps pick up the brown of the blouse print.

MANHATTAN CLAM CHOWDER

3 slices bacon, diced
1 cup sliced, peeled onions
3 cups cubed, pared, white potatoes
½ cup diced celery
5 cups hot water
2 tsps. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 No. 2 ½ can tomatoes (3½ cups)
1½ cups diced, pared carrots
3 cups clam liquid
2 doz. hard-shelled clams shucked
1 tblsp. minced parsely
½ tsp. dried thyme

Sauté diced bacon in deep kettle until crisp, stirring occasionally. Then stir in 1 teaspoonful thyme and onions, and cook, stirring occasionally, until tender. Add potatoes and next 4 ingredients. Cover; simmer 5 minutes. Add tomatoes carrots and clam liquid. (If you do not have 3 cups clam liquid, add water to make up difference.) Simmer, uncovered, over very low heat 1 hour. Meanwhile, pick over clams and remove any tiny bits of shell. Cut into small pieces. After chowder simmers 1 hour, add cut-up clams, parsley and ½ teaspoonful thyme. Bring to boil, then simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes longer. Taste chowder; add salt to taste. Makes 6 generous servings.

NOTE 1—If desired, make chowder night before; cool; chill; reheat next day.

NOTE 2—You may substitute ¼ cup butter, fortified margarine, or salad oil for the bacon, if desired.

BAKED SALMON AND VEGETABLES

4 medium white potatoes
Fat or salad oil
¼ cup minced onion
2 tblsp. butter or fortified margarine
3 tbsp. flour
1½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 cup milk
1 1-lb. can salmon
1 tblsp. lemon juice
1 1-lb. can asparagus tips
¼ tsp. nutmeg
¾ cup grated process American Cheddar cheese

Select 4 medium white potatoes as near the same size as possible. Scrub potatoes; then dry. Brush with fat or salad oil. Place on oven rack; bake in hot oven of 450 degrees F. for 45-50 minutes, or until tender. Meanwhile, cook onion in butter until tender in top of double boiler over direct heat. Add flour, salt, and pepper; blend. Then add milk; cook over boiling water until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Add ¼ cup liquid drained from salmon, coarsely flaked salmon, and lemon juice. Place ¾'s of salmon in greased 10-inch x 6-inch x 2-inch baking dish. Top with drained asparagus; sprinkle with nutmeg; top with remaining salmon. Sprinkle cheese over top. Place baking dish in same oven with potatoes; bake until cheese melts and starts to brown—about 15 to 20 minutes. When potatoes are done, remove at once, and prick with fork. Immediately cut cross in center top, and press from bottom until potato bursts through cross, snowy white. Top with butter, salt, and paprika; serve immediately. Makes 4 generous servings.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

EVERY ONCE in a while our Chef succumbs to that desire to use the luxurious foods that are the mark of his profession. This week it was mushrooms. Pan-broiled mushrooms and oysters; broiled mushrooms with Canadian bacon; breast of guinea hen with mushrooms; mushrooms baked in cream! Regretfully we had to turn them down. Too expensive; at least for the time being.

WITH PLAIN FOOD

"But," persisted the Chef, "can we not combine just a few mushrooms with plain foods to give a luxury taste? We must not allow our menus to become dull simply because we must use the money-saving foods. I think our readers would enjoy a steak and mushroom pie."

"Wait a minute, Chef. Did you say steak? That's expensive."

"But we can use chuck steak or a flank steak, and just one 3-oz. can of mushroom pieces will make a nice sauce for the pie filling."

"That's fine, Chef."

"And I will make up a very fine butter-bechamel sauce—"

"Hold on, Chef—"

"I know—too expensive. Very well, I will make it with margarine. Now, for a crust, I tell you what; I will use my best French pastry."

"There you go again, [illegible] butter and unnecessary use of wheat flour."

The Chef threw up his hands. "Then what do you suggest, Madame?"

MASHED POTATO TOPPING

"Why not a fluffy-whipped mashed potato topping? That would combine beautifully with the steak and mushroom filling."

"Very good. Thank goodness we have plenty of potatoes. And you know I shall bake these pies in my individual brown French casseroles. How would you like that? I go right away to get the mushrooms."

"Be sure to buy a can of mushroom pieces," I called as he pulled on his overcoat and started off.

It is only recently that homemakers generally throughout this country have become acquainted with mushroom cookery. In some sections we used to gather wild mushrooms. But today the growing of cultivated mushrooms has become a great industry. French mushrooms may be obtained in many cities; and food stores all over the country sell canned mushrooms.

Canned whole mushrooms or mushroom tops, plain or broiled in butter, are excellent for garnishing, and a few go a long way. For sauces or combination with other foods, there are 6 and 3 oz. cans of sliced mushrooms or mushroom pieces. And for special seasoning even a few dried mushrooms produce that luxury taste. For extra flavor be sure to use the liquid in the can or the water in which dried mushrooms have been soaked.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Hot Spiced Tomato Juice
Crackers
Steak and Mushroom Pie
Whipped Potato Top
Peas Cole Slaw
Lemon Sauce
Coffee or Tea Milk (children)
All Measurements Are Level
Recipes Serve Four

STEAK AND MUSHROOM PIE

Cut 1 lb. chuck or flank steak in thin slices, then crosswise into 1 in. squares. Sprinkle and coat with 2 tbsp. Flour, 1¼ tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper. Place in a casserole. Add 3 cloves and ½ tsp. onion juice. Pour in 1½ c. boiling water.

Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 F. for 1½ hrs. or until the meat is tender. Then add one 13-oz. can of mushroom pieces and their juice. Spread with whipped, well-seasoned mashed potato keeping the top rough, or put it on by means of a big pastry tube and bag. Brush lightly with a little melted margarine, and brown lightly in a hot oven, or under the broiler.

STEAMED FIG PUDDING

Fine-grate enough peeled white potatoes to make 1 c; then fine-grate enough carrots to make 1 c. Add ½ c. granulated or brown sugar. Then sift together 1 c. flour, 1 tsp. baking soda, ¾ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. mixed spices, ½ tsp. cinnamon, and the grated rind of ½ lemon. Stir in 2-3 c. moist dried figs, cut in small pieces. Transfer to a well-oiled qt. sized mold. Cover closely, place in a kettle; half surround with boiling water, cover and steam 4 hrs. Serve with lemon sauce. (This cannot be steamed in a double boiler.)

Lemon Sauce: Mix together 2-3 c. sugar and 1¼ tbsp. cornstarch in a small sauce pan. Stir in 1¼ c. boiling water. Bring to a boil, then simmer 5 min., stirring occasionally. Heat in ½ tbsp. butter or margarine, ⅛ tsp. nutmeg and 1½ tbsp. lemon juice. Serve hot.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

To get onion juice, cut a slice from the top of an unpeeled onion; then scrape up the juice with a teaspoon. For more, cut a thin slice from the onion, and do as you did before, and not a drop on the fingers.

Hostess' Favorite Recipe

By MARTHA LEE

MRS. ROBERT M. P. KENNARD, society hostess of Newton, has a knack for preparing dishes with a touch of originality. This Mock Green Turtle Soup, for instance, has won her many compliments from delighted guests. It tastes so much like the expensive honest-to-goodness turtle soup that one would never guess it was made with canned consomme.

At a recent luncheon she opened the menu with mock turtle soup, and followed with delicious creamed lobster and sherry en casserole, served in individual baking dishes, a tossed green salad, hot rolls, chocolate souffle and demi-tasse.

MOCK GREEN TURTLE SOUP

Take two cans of condensed consomme, one can of water measured in the soup can, and ½ pound of fresh mushrooms, cut up. Stew the mushrooms in the water for 15 to 20 minutes, then add them with the juice to the consomme. Add about 3 tablespoons of sherry, and serve hot.

Ultra-Special Cream Helps All Complexions

"WHAT'S SHE got that I haven't got?" says one girl to another about a third girl who, usually, has all the beaus. That query is, of course, as old as romance itself . . . invariably uttered by a gal who hasn't as much as the gal she's talking about.

We always say . . . that before trying to detect from another's claim to fame, however limited, we should take inventory of ourselves. That's where charity should begin . . . if charity is needed . . . where criticism should be lodged, where it usually IS needed . . . where change should be rendered and quite often change is necessary.

The change of face . . . the change of expression . . . the change of outlook . . . all of which adds up to the same thing, a nicer, softer, more personable being whose facial charm rating has the potential not only to influence people but hold their interest.

If you can't be gorgeously beautiful . . . make some attempt at being more presentable. It is woman's inalienable right to be charming . . . to look it and exude it. An important part of that charm is in a wholesome, clear, vibrant, radiant . . . and all the other adjectives that mean the same thing . . . kind of complexion.

GET BUSY ON ROUTINE

Get busy on that routine every night and morning. And make an integral part of it a specific cream having as its sole purpose that of beautifying and satin-texturizing the skin. Against a lovely complexion, the eyes seem brighter, the hair is prettier, the lips are lovelier. This cream is strictly for the night hours . . . since it requires the slumbering serenity to permit its ingredients to do the work of softening, smoothing the skin.

It is a cream charged with ingredients bearing a comparatively close resemblance to the skin's own lubricant principle which, of course, adds to the skin's natural emollient action. If you want facial miracles while you sleep . . . dip your fingertips into the creamy goodness of this ultra-ultra superb cream (not a hormone cream) and smooth it over face and neck. It is completely free of stickiness.—R. M.

For the name of this talented and ultra-special cream, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 2-4000, any day except Sunday, or write to Ruth Muggleber, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cannibalism Laid to Jap Nurse, Officer

TOKYO, Feb. 17 (AP)—A woman today was charged with serving American airmen's livers at a Japanese dinner party.

She is Sueko Tsuboi, former army nurse and first Japanese woman placed on trial for war crimes. She and 27 men co-defendants are charged with killing eight B-29 fliers in medical experiments.

Five of the men who allegedly ate the livers served with Japanese are charged with cannibalism.

U. S. Army prosecutors said the nurse showed decided enthusiasm for the meal. One defendant quoted her as saying it was delicious.

The charges include cutting open the heart of one—while he still lived—and removing his liver to cut up again.

The fliers have not been named.

Alleged participants said the experiments occurred in Kyushu Imperial University hospital shortly after they began after Tokyo army officials ordered fatal demonstrations of Japanese medical skill.

[illegible] of the fliers were served at a special lunch for Army officers and hospital surgeons—and that the livers were [illegible] a word [illegible] were eaten.

Cats After Brain Operations— And Two Removed Brains

Experimenters cut away the outer layer of the brains of these cats and produced fits. Thirteen animals so mutilated, and most of which were fed by stomach tube, were kept alive from 7 to 93 days. To discover their reaction to pain vivisectors pinched their tails severely and confronted them with snapping dogs.

Betrothal Tea Despite Accident

MRS. FRANKLIN W. HOBBS was hostess at a tea yesterday in the Vose Galleries to celebrate the opening of an exhibition of paintings by Mme. Elisabeth Weber-Fulop of Duxbury.

It was an especially interesting occasion because several Bostonians whose portraits are exhibited were present. They were received and their guests served tea by the artist herself. It stood on the [illegible] tables and quite a few of the guests had come from distant [illegible] for the festivities. The tea was in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner Howard of Newton Center, which was decorated with early spring flowers. Flowers rushed upstairs to extend best wishes to the lovable [illegible] who is a Conant student in New York. She was lovely in a peacock blue satin bed jacket with gold orchids in her dark hair. Her engagement ring is a beauty, too, made from twin diamonds that belonged to Jeff's mother and grandmother. Jane's dad was the late George Holland, for many years columnist on this paper.

Guests at the tea included Jean Erwin of Texas and Helene Girard of Brookline, who room with Jane in New York, Jane Monahan and Frances Alberti, who have recently become engaged, Betty Lally and Mona Nash. Jane's grandmother, Mrs. James Holland also enjoyed the party as did her great-aunt, Mrs. Bertram Doughty, and her aunt, Mrs. James Murley. The latter's little daughter, Susan, was custodian of a silver platter containing gardenia corsages for each guest. They were tied with tiny cards inscribed Jane and Jeff.

Capt. Smith is the son of Col. Henry J. M. Smith of Atlanta. He is studying at Johns Hopkins for an M. A. in engineering. A June wedding is planned.

THE ELDON WINKLERS of Wellesley have mailed novel announcements of their son's birth. Prominent in theatrical circles they designed a card in the form of a theater program presenting "Pantomime of Sound and Action" in which the leading man and soloist is two-weeks-old Arthur Roderick Winkler. He was born Feb. 1 at Richardson House winter sports accident last week. The party went off as planned because Jane had her heart set on announcing her engagement [illegible] a Valentine tea. [illegible] and quite a few of the guests had come from distant [illegible] for the festivities. The tea was in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner Howard of Newton Center, which was decorated with early spring flowers. Flowers rushed upstairs to extend best wishes to the lovable [illegible] who is a Conant student in New York. She was lovely in a peacock blue satin bed jacket with gold orchids in her dark hair. Her engagement ring is a beauty, too, made from twin diamonds that belonged to Jeff's mother and grandmother. Jane's dad was the late George Holland, for many years columnist on this paper.

Engagement Announced

Albert C. Thayer, Mrs. Morris Gerson, Miss Grace Cooper, Mrs. Alvin T. Fuller, Mrs. W. [illegible] Dana Crouse and Mrs. Arthur D. Hemmes, were present [illegible] Jeffrey.

Guests included Mrs. Ethel Stevenson, Miss Margaret Hodgdon, Prince, Mrs. Rose E. [illegible] Wheeler of L. Gerard Leone, Mrs. Charles Perkins, Mrs. Charles Gaston Smith, Mrs. Alexander Steinert and her daughter Mrs. Samuel Newman.

A "LITTLE" THING like a toboggan accident and a couple of fractured vertebrae can't stand in the way of romance when the young lady has courage.

Capt. Jeffrey Greenwood Smith can have no question about the courage of his fiancee, Jane Holland, after the gallant way she went through with their engagement party even though she was flat on her back in bed and strapped to a very uncomfortable board.

Political Slapstick Film Tops

With characteristic irreverence, Charles MacArthur satirizes American politics in "The Senator Was Indiscreet" with such broad strokes and such hit-em-where-they-live thrusts as to cause a high blood pressure epidemic among our more vulnerable legislators.

The George S. Kaufman-directed Nunnally Johnson production is presently doing another sort of lifting job at Keith Memorial Theater . . . in this instance, it's the roof, in a manner of exaggerated speaking, that is being lifted by audience hilarity.

Doubtless remembering Kaufman's blistering knack of deflating in the Broadway hits, "Of Thee I Sing" and "I'd Rather Be Right," producer Johnson signed him up to turn his fast-and-loose talents on "The Senator," an acting plum assigned to William Powell.

Powell's senator, who hasn't the statesmanship of a watchdog, through a fluke (he's kept a diary on the party-machine boys) embarks upon a Presidential campaign.

Publicly disclaiming he's a candidate, he nevertheless tours the country on a platform which includes a guarantee that every man, woman and child in the nation will enjoy a normal temperature, comes violently against both inflation and deflation and back "flation," promises labor a two-day week with eight days' pay the while he promises capital to keep labor working an eight-day week with two days' pay.

Ella Raines, covering the campaign for her newspaper, seeks to spike the senator's Presidential aspirations by ridiculing him in print. This is a little hard on Peter Lind Hayes, who is doubling as the senator's press agent and Ella's fiance.

"The Senator Was Indiscreet" is a harlequinade of how-haws, but it should not be allowed to follow the senator out of the country on account of the Russians, for example, would be certain to miss the comedy for the propaganda values.

Honest, I Didn't Know
USED FATS WERE STILL BADLY NEEDED!

Lady, where have you been? Used fats are needed now more than ever, because the shortage of fats and oils today is the greatest in the world's history. Our government warns us that the supply simply cannot meet today's industrial needs. You can help prevent this supply from getting too low by continuing to turn in your used fats.

You say you re-use them for cooking! Sure! But even the drops left after that are worth salvaging. Then how about melting down fat trimmings, skimming gravies? Those tricks yield plenty!

And come to think of it, what other kitchen waste can you convert into good hard cash? It's a point to remember, these days of high food costs! You know, prices butchers pay for used fats are up, on the average. So please . . . don't throw your fats away. Save 'em, and turn 'em in!

Expert Acting, Plus Shaw At His Best--New Stage Hit

By PEGGY DOYLE

Playgoers who, like Bea Lillie, prefer the old gleam to the new look had a wonderful time last night at the Colonial Theater with Bernard Shaw's celebrated play, "You Never Can Tell."

Now pushing 92, Ireland's greatest living playwright, was 38-ish when he first began writing this witty satire on the so-called human race that England's distinguished critic, W. A. Darlington, recently bracketed with "St. Joan" as the works that will keep Shaw on the boards long after all of us are dust to dust.

Sixth and final play of the Theater Guild-American Theater Society subscription season, the Theresa Helburn-Lawrence Langner-supervised production terminates the organization's annual presentations here on a triumphant note after a less than salubrious beginning.

Expertly cast and with fine actor Leo G. Carroll giving a glowing performance as the gentle, kindly, old waiter, William, who takes some sly pot-shots at English class distinctions, "You Never Can Tell" is certain to have Shaw doing a double-feature on Broadway in the immediate future. As you must know, Maurice Evans' brilliant production of "Man and Superman," caught here earlier in the season, has made the Grand Old Man of Letters . . . and penny-postcards . . . the Main Stem's hottest playwright.

With his incomparable talent for irritating and soothing us, laughing at us and with us, taunting and delighting us, Shaw concerns himself with one of the early feminists, a Mrs. Clandon, who revolts at her husband's dominance, removes herself and their three children from his tyrannical influence and rears the latter according to her "woman of the 20th century" principles.

The old tongue-in-the-cheek boy, who has been called the last of the optimists, then proceeds to prove that a young woman so brought up has no armor against the sophisticated love-making of the first man she meets.

In the final scene, which scintillates with Shavian wit, the master playwright goes into his "Man and Superman" didoes, that a man hasn't a chance when a determined woman goes husband-stalking.

Freda Inescort, looking handsomer than she has in years in elegant Stewart Chaney-designed gowns, gives a most interesting account of Shaw's feminist who is a babe in the woods emotionally.

As her elder daughter, Gloria, who gets her man after a delayed double-take, Faith Brook, English stage and screen star Clive Brook's lovely, statuesque daughter, revealed considerable talent and charm.

A standout performance was Patricia Kirkland's. Daughter of playwright-producer Jack Kirkland and screen and stage star Nancy Carroll, her brash and captivating characterization of the feminist's younger daughter gave a bounce and color to the evening's proceedings that mark her as a filly to watch.

Ralph Forbes' bumbling fatuous, deserted husband and father is one of his best performances, and makes up for an assortment of misses and near-misses in recent seasons. Other "odd volumes" are Walter Hudd's humorless, pinched counsellor, McComas, and William Devlin's pedantic, posturing barrister-son of old William.

Nigel Stock's young Philip needs some toning down, as does Tom Helmore's Valentine, the dentist Gloria traps.

The action takes place at a seaside resort in Devon, England, in August, 1896, for which Stewart Chaney has provided four sets, notably a delightfully dated hotel terrace and hotel sitting-room.

COMBUSTIBLE teaming—Veronica Lake and Alan Ladd, who are to be seen in "Saigon," Paramount production, on the Met screen beginning Thursday.

B. U. BAND IN CONCERT

The first symphonic concert by the 80-piece Boston University Band will be given in New England Mutual Hall tonight at 8:15. Warren S. Freeman is the conductor and Walter M. Smith, associate conductor. The program will include Bach, Taylor, Williams, Gould and three modern band arrangements by Herbert W. Fredd. The public is invited.

'My Romance' Tuneful; Given Good Production by Shuberts

By LEO GAFFNEY

Thirty-four years ago it was "Romance." Doris Keane starred in it and the heart-tugging play opened the Wilbur Theater as its first attraction. Now it is "My Romance," fitted out with a new music score by Denes Agay, lyrics by Rowland Leigh, who has also supplied some rearrangement of the book and the over-all staging at the Shubert.

Anne Jeffreys fascinating blonde star of the movies, now plays the lateful Italian opera diva who took the New York of 1897 by what is known as storm —which included the rugged heart of the Rev. Thomas Armstrong, Episcopalian rector of St Giles.

In 1914 the dress-coated gentry of Broadway dashed the unbidden tears from its attentive eyes as Doris Keane played upon all stops the bittersweet story of Mme. Rita Cavallini and her suppressed love for honest Tom Armstrong, who returned that love literally —and could not forget it, nor get it back, 50 years later.

Neither particularly Italianate nor voluptuous in appearance—she hasn't an operatic voice, either—Miss Jeffreys does manage beautifully with the role, and in spite of all she conveys the impression of an extremely glamorous woman, a heart-breaker destined to be herself heart-broken.

Charles Fredericks, as Armstrong, overleaps all obstacles, too. The old lines now sound plushy and old-fashioned, but Mr. Fredericks with his good voice and ease of manner speaks them out straight-forwardly, becomingly.

By means of Prologue and Epilogue the 1897 events become flashbacks, and the costumes and scenery of an older New York, when susceptible gentlemen drank champagne from a diva's slipper, come gently to view.

The Shuberts have done handsomely by the production in this regard. The music is tuneful, easy to take, though not memorable. Both attendance and applause on opening night were generous.

At present the book overpowers all. It will undoubtedly be cut. The production is notable for fine singing voices, particularly Mr. Fredericks' and the promising attainments of Hazel Dawn, Jr., and Madelaine Holmes in this regard should not be overlooked. (They're both pretty, too.)

Extensive repairs are in order for "My Romance," lest the essential goodness of the production and all that fine young talent be wasted.

CORRECT PARENTS

(A Complete Short Story)

By CHRISTOPHER KING

ELAINE CARSON jumped from the bed as the alarm sarrilied. She snapped off the bell and dashed down the stairs. In the kitchen, she tied on an apron, fumbling with the knot in her haste, lit all the burners on the stove and yanked the pots and pans out of the oven drawer.

It was 3:30 and she had a day's work to do before 6. If only Dr. Klauser had not prescribed the afternoon nap for her she'd have had a chance to get everything done. What was Tom always saying—that putting things in order in your mind was half of any job? Better go over everything she had to do.

Start the stew first, then get the boys up and dressed, and out, then clean the front room, and then set the table, and then start the other food, and the boys' food, then a bath, that is no, the bath would have to wait until after the boys ate. Terry was learning the Bronx cheer with vegetables.

She turned off the three burners that would not be used. How, she wondered, did those people in the magazines manage? For two weeks now she tried to follow the example of the couple with four children. The couple had been written up with several other families to show how easy it was to take care of a large family and still meet your husband at the door as if you were going on a date.

LIKE COUPLE IN MAGAZINE

The woman would have the house spic and span, a new hairdo every night, the children fed, bathed, and ready for bed when the husband came home. He would kiss the children good night, and then the parents would have cocktails, enjoy a leisurely dinner, and spend the balance of the evening playing cards or just talking, and not about the children or household problems.

Elaine had remembered how long Tom had spent reading the article. She had determined to change their way of life to that of the ideal couple.

Principal Characters

ELAINE, who tries to run the house and children just as they do in the magazines—but what about husband TOM?

Tom and Elaine had lived a helter-skelter mess instead of a quiet peaceful life. When Tom came home he usually had the groceries for supper, since Elaine seldom got a chance to shop. The boys were still out, and Tom often started the food while she corralled the boys.

Then they each fed one child while their dinner was cooking, and let the boys manage dessert by themselves while Tom and Elaine began their dinner.

There was never a chance for cocktails. Terry often had to be fed while they finished eating. Then came the baths, with Tom bathing Jimmy, and Elaine taking Terry. By 7:30 they were in bed, but there was never a chance for a quiet card game.

There would be clothes to be washed, or the house to be vacuumed, or Terry would decide it was a good night to cut a tooth, or perhaps Jimmy would complain that a fire engine was in his room, making it impossible for him to stay in bed.

DINING LIKE PEOPLE IN THE MAGAZINE

It meant an awful lot of work for Elaine to change all that, and it was especially bad with her sore back. Tom didn't have as much time with the children, but they were dining like the people in the magazine. Of course, it did seem as if the late dinner hour left Elaine just finishing the dishes at 10 o'clock, which made it time for bed, as the boys were waking early since their bedtime had been advanced.

Terry was crying now, awaking from his nap. Today it took only 20 minutes to get them both up and out. That was a record, of course. She had been abrupt with Jimmy. Was she becoming like Tom? He had seemed abstracted, something about the business must be bothering him.

The table was set in a flash Elaine picked up in the front room. The vegetables next, and ice out for the martinis, and the boys' dinners on, and then getting them in and washed, remembering to keep the soap out of Terry's reach. He had spoiled his dinner twice by eating the soap. How would she ever correct that baby by the old-fashioned way if when he learned to talk he started using bad words? He seemed to enjoy soap more than any food.

By 5:30 the boys were finishing up messily, and Elaine dashed upstairs to plunge in and out of the waiting tub. The hot water helped her back. She dressed and came down to find that Terry had managed to reach a paper towel and discovered it was as delicious a treat as soap.

TOM HEARS ABOUT THE MILK BOTTLES

Tom would be home in 20 minutes. It would be safe to bathe the boys now. She flung a housecoat around her new figure and lugged them upstairs.

It was terrible, trying to do both in the tub at the same time, but there were ready with five minutes to spare. Elaine sent them down to meet Tom when he came in. She made a few swift finishing touches to her hair. All the articles of advice to young mothers stressed that the hair must be perfect when the husband came home from the office.

Tom was home, and exclaiming over Jimmy's tale of the squirrel knocking over the milk bottles. She took a last quick glance in the mirror, and then, with an imaginary book balanced on her head, she came slowly, gracefully down to kiss Tom.

"Hi, Elaine. Gosh, you've got them all set for bed again. When do we eat?"

Elaine sank down in the couch gracefully in spite of the terrible kink in her back. "Oh, We won't dine for an hour Tom. Would you do the cocktails? I'll take the boys up."

"ELAINE? WHAT'S WRONG?"

Tom kissed the boys good night, and then went into the dinning room to fix the martinis. Elaine wondered if anything could be wrong. Tom seemed quiet. Was he angry, worried, or what was it that made him so quiet?

The boys seemed to understand about the magazine couple, or was it the harrassed good night they got from their mother? At any rate, they went to bed without a word, and Elaine came down to put the finishing touches on the dinner.

As she entered the room Tom looked up from the martinis.

"What are we having to eat? The boys go off okay?

Elaine could feel it coming. Her back suddenly felt as if all the muscles had started to tie themselves in knots. Her legs buckled, and she started to fall. Tom reached her, and eased her into the chair.

"Elaine! What's wrong? What's the matter?"

Elaine knew she had failed. She couldn't keep up with the ideal couple, not with doing all the baths, and all the washing, and everything else that Tom used to help her do. The tears filled her eyes.

"Tom, I can't do it. I tried so hard to have your dinner for you in peace and all, but I can't. My back feels like I've been carrying a 50-pound papoose around for a week."

Her husband laughed and patted her cheek. "You mean we can eat early again, and I can play with the kids for a while, and that we won't be waking at 5:30, and that we won't have to drink those martinis? Honey, you've saved me from a terrible fate. I was scared to death you were trying to keep up with those impossibly perfect parents those daffy writers think up. I want my dinner when I get home and I'm willing to scramble to help get it. See?"

THE END.

Wise Words to Harvard's New Football Coach

By AUSTEN LAKE

PARDON MY CRASS CYNICISM. But Harvard has named a young character builder from Michigan U. to teach its neatly barbered hopefuls the ABC's of football. The youth, Art Valpey, comes with a heartful of optimism and sublime innocence of Harvard problems as compared with Ann Arbor's, where he served under that fine spellbinder, organizer and football diplomat, Fritz Crisler, whose greatest talent is his charm and persuasion with the alumni.

Old Fritiz never lacked for whole hordes of husky beeves when at Princeton and later at Michigan and what he needed from year to year had a miraculous way of turning up. The silvery old tongue thrower, who is a cold, austere man at his coaching duties but an ear-enchanter at alumni luncheons, travelled around between seasons spinning his magic cobwebs around alumni hearts.

All perfectly legal mind you and not violating the fine moral code of the Big Nine or Ivy League—just that Old Fritz let it be known that he would not be provoked if a kid of requisite leg speed, spinal strength, and rubbery muscle appeared on registration day with an alumni scholarship for room and board in his pocket.

Fritz Had His "Co-incidents"

YOU MAY RECALL WHEN Old Fritz accepted the football chair at Princeton some very excellent freshmen players matriculated coincidentally with his coming and were known as the Princeton "co-incidents" which gave him 27 sophomores good enough to make his varsity. So that, suddenly from being the Ivy League shoemat, Princeton stopped taking its lickings and gave them back with emphasis. And you will also remember how last fall, as a perfect specimen of the Crisler method, Michigan had two top-grade varsities where most other coaches could hardly scrape together one. He had one varsity for speed and ball toting and another for heft and immovability which he alternated as the situation required. These might have been "co-incidents" too.

What am I driving at? I am saying that in importing a Crisler disciple to Harvard it is importing a theory without substance. So, also, in attempting to impart the Crisler system in strict accordance with the lessons as Old No. 1 taught them at Ann Arbor, young Mr. Valpey may have occasion to wonder why it is the Harvard boys turn up no better than a tie with Brown and take it on the whiskers from their theoretical equals at Yale, Dartmouth, etc.

It is only humanitarian on my part to warn Mr. Valpey that there may be times next autumn when he will wish to lock himself away from friends and family and have a good shudder. Because Crisler dictated the number of weeks he needed each April and the hours he required each fall to perfect his pupils in their fandangoes. And, if a Michigan kid's study schedule interfered with regular attendance at practice, Old Fritz re-arranged the study to another period. Or if he couldn't, he dropped the kid kersmack" from the squad, because with his regiments of talent, one kid or another created no crisis. But one kid or another missing at Harvard, where it is impossible to field a varsity all at the same time except on Saturday, is a catastrophe.

Thus at Michigan if Old Fitz wishes to polish his intricate figures in evening skull sessions he merely posts the command on his bulletin board and they report with their loose-leaf note books ready to jot down the lecture. So Old Fritz dominates his campus life and in his hard, icy way drives home his teachings for unity, coherence and emphasis.

I MEAN TO BE INFORMATIVE and not discouraging. But young Mr. Valpey will have few of these perquisites at Harvard where the top educational brass takes the curious viewpoint that kids are there primarily to study other abstractions than football and, if they must choose between one or 'tuther, football will have to take the crumbs and leavings. Which I agree is what a brain factory is for.

My analysis of Michigan's football roster shows that a heavy majority of its football athletes come from all over our national checkerboard while those at Harvard hail three-fourths from Massachusetts. This is not intended to belittle our local talent, which basically is the best in the land, but in recent years Harvard has received only the whey or skimmed milk from our schoolboy football skill hereabouts. Coaches from all over the country skim off the cream with allurements of one kind or another. So Mr. Valpey will find no Bob Chappuises, Pete Elliotts, Howard Yerges, Jack Weisenbergers, Leonard Fords or Bruce Hilkenes, to mention only a few of Old Fritz' prize scholars in swineskinology who won him national fame as coach of 1947. He won't be able to retire to the concrete grandstand during the first hour of afternoon practice, as old Fritz does, and meditate while his staff does the rough work. He will have to get out there and scramble.

Young Mr. Valpey will also find he has to do as old Richard Cresson Harlow did before him, which is to tinker and change his original stuff until pretty soon it is not the old original stuff any more, but compromise stuff. Because the Harvard kids haven't the power and time to tear off the stuff like the numerous and stylish Mich gan kids did. And all these abacadabras of Old Fritz's, like his "spin cycles" and "fake-buck, lateral cycles" and "straight, single-wing cycles" with their intricate variations will be too indigestible for Harvard's 10-o'clock scholars.

So I trust that Harvard will be as patient with young Mr. Valpey as he is with Harvard and when his two-year contract ends, they will mutually agree that he needs more time to re-shuffle his teaching style to meet Harvard requirements or that Harvard will reshape its system nearer to Old Fritz's kind of alumni spellbinding and sales oratory. Anu lastly I wish young Mr. Valpey and Harvard well in their experiment.

15 Big League Clubs Tried To Ban Robinson-Rickey

WILBERFORCE, O., Feb. 17 (AP)—Branch Rickey defied the formally expressed opposition of 15 major league clubs to give Ja ckie Robinson, first negro star, his chance at organized baseball. Using the annual footba ll banquet of Wilberforce State University, a negro school, as his sounding board, Rickey in a candid and impassioned address told an audience of some 250:

"After I had signed Robinson, but before he had played a game, a joint major league meeting adopted unanimously a report prepared by a joint committee whic hstated that 'however well intentioned, the use of Negro players would hazard all the physical properties of baseball.

"You can't find a copy of that report anywhere, but I was at the meeting where it was adopted.

"I sat silent while the other 15 clubs approved it.

"I've tried to get a copy of the report, but league officials tell me all were destroyed.

"But let them deny they adopted such a report, if they dare.

I'd like to see the color of the man's eyes who would deny it."

Rickey said the report was adopted at the winter meeting after the appointment of A. B. (Happy) Chandler as commissioner.

"President Ford Frick passed out copies at the National League meeting. Each copy bore the name of the man to whom it was handed.

"After we read them, they were collected. Frick checked off the names to see that he had all the copies. Then in the joint meeting the report was read, and adopted."

Rickey, who flew here from a Chicago meeting of the All-America Football Conference, spoke long beyond midnight. He was to return to Chicago today.

"I have had this Robinson story inside me for a couple of years," the prexy of the National League champions said, "and I've decided the time has come for me to tell just how I feel about the whole thing.

"I believe that racial extractions and color hues and forms of worship become secondary to what men can do. The denial of equality of opportunity to qualify for work to anyone, anywhere, any time, is un-understandable to me.

"The American public is not as concerned with a first baseman's pigmentation as it is with the power of his swing, the dexterity of his slide, the gracefulness of his fielding, or the speed of his legs.

"Who thinks of the inconsequentials when great matters of common challenge and natural interest confront us? It is not strange that Robinson should be given a chance in America to feed and shelter and clothe his wife and child and mother in a job he can do well, better than most individuals. It is not strange that a drop of water seeks to find the ocean."

"HIYA, JIM . . ."—Johnny Vander Meer of Reds greets Jimmy Johnston of Rising Fawn, Ga., at Tampa baseball school. They were Navy buddies on Guam, playing on same team in 1943-44. Vandy's an instructor at the school, Johnston a job aspirant.
Associated Press Wirephoto

The Brooklyn Mahatma said he had spent $25,000 in 1945 scouting Negro players, but that his scouts thought they were seeking talent for a Negro league.

"I knew what I was up against. In St. Louis the Negro patrons were not allowed in the grandstand. In seeking my first Negro player I needed a superlative man, a man who had to be an outstanding player on the field, and a thorough gentleman off it.

"When I called Robinson to my office he had no idea I wanted him for a white team. I dramatized six situations I knew he would come up against in baseball. I called him names. I all but hit him. And don't kid yourselves, this Robinson is no 'gentle breeze.' He's a competitor, a gentleman, and he has great personal respect.

"He is a credit to his race, and he knows he has much of his race's future on his shoulders. For two years he has had an almost Christ-like taste of turning the other cheek.

"He has great homage coming to him, and his rce owes it to him. But we have to be careful, for some of the things you'd like to do for him just cannot be. We've ha dto stop parades and excursions in his honor. He must be treated just the same, no better or worse, than a white boy in our game."

"Now there is a Communistic effort to get credit for 'forcing' us to sign Robinson, but I warn you to be on your guard against that thing.

"We now have five other Negro boys in our organization, and this is going to come out all right. Two American League clubs have signed Negro players, too. And four National League clubs have put out feelers for Robinson—one asking if we are interested in trading him, another asking that he be included in a deal we are making, another asking if we knew where it could find a Negro star, and another showing a decided interest in him."

Roy Shipstad Again Headlines Ice Follies

The famed Ice Follies, augmented with comedy, beauty, thrills and pageantry of proportions never before equaled, opens a 13-day stand at the Boston Garden tonight starting at 8:30 o'clock. The Shipstads-Johnson production will remain at the North Station rink through Feb. 29 with matinees each Saturday and Sunday, plus a special afternoon performance Monday, Feb. 23.

This is the popular skating show's 12th annual visit to Boston and but one member of the original show is still skating. He is Roy Shipstad who first brought the Follies to Boston with his brother, Eddie, and partner, Oscar Johnson. Despite his many seasons, Roy continues to headline the production and is still the smoothest skater in the game today. He will be ably assisted by Evelyn Chandler, Betty Schalow, Mae Ross, Hazel Franklin, Harris Legg, Frick and Frack, Phyllis Legg and Russ Tucky, all veterans of other Ice Follies. Newest discoveries to give the show new youth and charm include Monica Moran, ballerina on skates; the lovely blonde Scotvold twins; Gerri Straub, now skating in the Clair De Lune number with Ginger Clayton and Shirley Halstead, and the other pair of twins, the Schramms. New, too, in a feature spot is petite, Marilyn Sahlin.

Comedy numbers are spaced in good proportion with the production and solo turns and many new novelties are introduced. Most spectacular of the full stage productions are "Crosstown," "Winter Scene, 1865," "Old King Cole," "Buttons," "Persian Festival," "Old San Francisco" and, of course, Roy Shipstad and his girls in "At the Royal Hawaiian." The closing number—"All Ashore" brings on the beautiful Follettes in another of those precision numbers that have always been a highlight of the Follies.

Miss Helen Rose, through an arrangement with M. G. M., has been loaned to the Ice Follies and she is responsible for the eye-filling costumes; the elegance of which far surpass anything ever before attempted in any entertainment venture. Hollywood's best property and setting designers have created never-to-be-forgotten sequences. Tommy Lawless, recognized as one of the most talented designers in Hollywood is responsible for the spectacular designs. Walter Rudolph, concert pianist, has scored the music for the show.

Suffolk Downs' Plan for 1948

Bookmakers to Face Ban; Drive To Halt 'Fixers'

By JACK CONWAY

(This is the third of a series of articles by Jack Conway in which he engages in a round table discussion on Massachusetts racing with Judge John Pappas, Allan Wilson, Billy Almy, Jules Haller of Suffolk Downs and Chairman Harry Allen of the Massachusetts Racing Commission.)

THERE WILL BE NO BOOKMAKING permitted at Suffolk Downs during its 72 days of 1948 racing, Judge John Pappas revealed during a round table discussion on the turf sport with President Allan Wilson, Billy Almy, Jules Haller, Harry Allen and me.

Joe Ferrari, former crack detective of the State Police, will be charged with the duty of keeping bookmakers from plying their trade in competition with the mutuel machines.

Pappas declared forcefully that any persons put out of Suffolk Downs for bookmaking will be kept off the track for the year.

An order of the racing commission banned the handling of come-back money from bookmakers at Massachusetts tracks. For years at the East Boston track big bookmakers like Frank Erikson of New York used to maintain cash balances of as much as $20,000 to $50,000 in the mutuel department.

The bookmakers then secured private telephone lines which ran from their offices in New York, Boston, Providance and other cities direct to the mutuel department. If a big wager came into their office on a particular horse and they did not care to carry all of it they would pick up their private telephone to Suffolk Downs and wager all or part of the money through the mutuel machines.

The come-back money, usually from professional bookmakers, ran into the thousands of dollars each year. There have been instances at New England tracks where the bookmakers were paid commissions for come-back money.

Suffolk Had "Preferred" Bookmaking List

THERE WAS ALSO A SELECT LIST OF Boston bookmakers who were notified as to what days they could operate at Suffolk Downs. These bookmakehs also kept cash balances at the track as they wished to be in a position to prove that they sent large sums of the money wagered with them back through the mutual machines.

Persons friendly to the bookmaking interests contended the professional gamblers helped increase the mutuel handle. This was probably true, but against the money angle was the open charge that some of the bookmakers used money wagered with them to "fix" races. Even the customers of the bookmakers were hard hit by such evil practices.

"If a bettor places $5000 with an unscrupulous bookmaker on a certain horse to win, the bookmaker has a sure thing if he can get a jockey to take $1000 to pull the horse on which the money is wagered," a prominent racing official told me. "The bookmaker ends up with a $4000 profit on a crooked race and he has not taken a single speculative risk. This is one of the reasons why bookmakers are no good for honest racing."

Judge Pappas, in reply to questions from me, told how he plans to stop such sinister practices.

Q—What is your attitude, Judge Pappas, concerning bookmakers operating at Suffolk Downs?

A—I am definitely opposed to bookmakers operating at Suffolk Downs. I have given Joe Ferrari a free hand to stamp out this evil.

(Billy Almy) There were more ejections of persons, some of whom were suspected of making book on the races, at Suffolk Downs last year than ever. There was more vigilance on the part of our police and detective services.

Guilty Parties to Be Barred All Season

(PAPPAS) AND ONCE A PERSON was put off the track he was kept off. A track that bars a man one day, and reinstates him the next, shows weakness. We shall follow the same policy this year.

Q—You mean, Judge, that if a man is caught accepting bets he will be run off the track?

A—(Pappas) I do.

Q—What about the known bookmaker who goes to see the races at Suffolk Downs? Will he be banned from doing so?

A—(Pappas) The known bookmaker who may wish to attend the races at Suffolk Downs will be watched by Joe Ferrari and his men from the minute he enters the track, and if there is any evidence that he is accepting wagers he will be banned. I think Joe Ferrari knows enough about this class of gentry to tell whether they are in action at the track.

Q—You realize, Judge, that while bookmakers may increase the mutuel handle that they also may "fix" races

BOB McMULLAN OF H. C.
Crusaders' Trouble-Shooter

Julian Fears BC Defense

The Crusaders, rolling merrily on to another NCAA tourney, will be out to eliminate the first of two New England "troublemakers" tonight when they meet Boston College in the feature of the first collegiate double-header this week.

In the lid-lifter, William & Mary will test Boston University, the Purple's opponent next Friday night.

Although an odds-on favorite to dump the Eagles for their 11th straight win, Coach Doggie Julian has his usual worries. Especially so against his Jesuit rivals who are expected to come up with a baffling zone defense.

Coach Gen. Al McClellan of the Eagles warned Julian at the weekly basketball writers' luncheon that his team is keyed for this game but failed to reveal what he had in store for the Worcester Wizards.

As usual, "Doggie" frankly admitted he was worried. He knows the boys from the Heights will come up with some kind of a zone defense in an attempt to halt the high-geared Crusaders and he has prepared for just such an emergency.

"We have been working against zone plays," stated the Purple mentor at the luncheon, "and no kiddin', fellas, I'm worried about this game."

Both teams will be at full strength, although regular Joe Mullaney will not be a starter. While nursing a bad charley-horse, Joe lost his starting role to Dermie O'Connell. Mullaney has fully recovered but "Doggie" intends to leave the starting lineup as is with Dermie teaming with Bob Curran in the back court.

In the opener, Coach Russ Peterson of B. U. will use his new five-by-five star, Dick Lynch. He's a newcomer but has impressed Peterson so much that he will start at forward with George Gaudreault.

Priest to Box Mead Again; Set for Mar. 1

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

"Red" Priest, Cambridge middleweight, is the hottest fighter in New England following his split decision win over Charlie Fusari, Irvington, N. J., at the Garden last night.

Priest has fought to two big houses in two weeks. He beat Pete Mead in a split decision then edged Fusari. He has now agreed to meet Mead for the second time on March 1 in a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden.

"We're ready to fight Mead right away," said Mgr. Johnnie Buckley. "The last fight with Mead was the best fight of the season. I'm going to keep Priest working steady now as it is the only way to keep him in top shape. He gets stale when he loafs."

Priest was slower against Fusari than he was when he fought Mead.

"I felt sluggish," said Priest. "I was in better shape for Fusari than I have been in for a year but I moved slower. I've been training hard."

The decision was close. Judge Jim Shaughnessy and Referee Mel Manning gave the fight to Priest, 97 to 96. Judge Jim Carrig gave the fight to Fusari, 98 to 92. The Boston American score card saw the fight even, five rounds each.

Jackie Wilson, Quincy, was elated by his TKO win over Frankie Foran of Newark. That makes seven in a row for Jackie.

There is much speculation over possible opponents for the next Callahan A. C. show scheduled for March 15. Usually reliable sources hint that Joey Maxim, heavyweight protege of Jack Kearns, will fight Bill Weinberg. Bill has now won nine straight in New York rings. Maxim is the boy who spoiled Olle Tandberg's U. S. debut. Tandberg is the Swedish heavyweight champion.

Results of the other matches were: Johnny Woods, Boston, defeated Billy Murray, Roxbury, six rounds; Bobbie Noonan, Newark, defeated Ralph Laro, Lynn, four rounds; Casmir Sugalski, Newark, defeated Dick Callahan, Boston, six rounds, and Lennie Labrutta, Newark, had a six-round draw with Joey Bolduc, Cambridge.

BOXING RESULTS

BALTIMORE—Sonny Boy West, 134½, Washington, outpointed Mike Baratti, 133½, Utica, 10.
NEW YORK—Gene Boland, 156½, Detroit, outpointed Hal Anspach, 156½, Milburn, N. J., 10; Stan Kessler, 135½, Brooklyn and Meyer Segel, 135½, Brooklyn, fought to an eight-round draw.

Hitchcock Signing Recalls Ted's 'Sit-Down'

By HERB FINNEGAN

Billy Hitchcock has signed with the Red Sox, Tom Dowd announced today, and immediately the boys asked: "Who's Billy Hitchcock?" Well, he's an infield spare who gained more prominence on the gridiron in three years than he has in eight years on the diamond.

Tall, blond and handsome Billy was an all-southern halfback at Auburn, and he could carry the ball like a Bob Chappius. He looks the part of a big leaguer, and Detroit, which night on and finally St. Louis thought he was just what the doctor ordered, for a while. But now he's tabbed "good-field, no-hit." His batting average last year with the Browns was a picayunish .222 in 80 games.

Billy Hitchcock

There was a day he did hit, however, and Fenway Park patrons of 1942 may recall it. Sox and Tigers were engaged in a Sunday doubleheader. Both games were close. Tony Lupien, now with the White Sox, won the first game with a base hit after Ted Williams had failed.

The fans took great delight in riding the Boston Beanpole, and other sizzler. Sox were leading, 2-1 or 3-2 and, with a man on base, Hitchcock lined a single to left. It was to Williams' left, one of those hits which, returned to the infield quickly, would hold the runner on second. But the runner scored. Why? Because the pouty Williams stood with arms akimbo in left field, and let Dom DiMaggio come racing over to center field to retrieve it. Yippee! What fun. That was the tying run. How the 33,000 raved! Never before had they seen anything like it. This was the rich-kid-on-the play-ground stuff who'd run home with the ball if anybody spoke harshly to him.

Lupien, the Harvard boy who was rich when Williams was poor, came to his succor again and won the second game with a base hit, in extra innings if memory serves correct.

No reprimands were made—except by pitcher Tex Hughson, who, on the train to St. Louis that night, said to Williams: "I wasn't pitching, Ted, and maybe it's none of my business. But when I am pitching, don't you ever jake it on me like you did this afternoon."

Billy Hitchcock won't make the 1948 Red Sox infield, may not even be with the club when they're fighting for the pennant. He was just a toss-in in the Ellis Kinder deal, for whom the Sox gave Clem Dreisewerd, Sam Dente and a roll that would choke Whirlaway.

But he'll be with the Sox in Sarasota, and when the moon is high and the night air warm that Hitchcock hit will be mentioned more than once in the "breeze" sessions on the terrace of the Sarasota Terrace Hotel.

Only 13 pitchers are on the Sox roster, so Joe McCarthy will take lefty Maurice McDermott of Louisville and several Scranton pitchers to camp to help out in the long batting practice sessions . . . He'll also take first baseman Walker Drapo, to camp, though the former U. of Connecticut all-round athlete isn't on the roster. Drapo graduated from Connecticut last June, joined Scranton and had a bang-up year. If he does as well at Louisville, he may be the Sox regular first baseman before season's end. After all, Mickey Harris and Sam Mele made good from Scranton. Drapo stands 6-5 and reminds one of Hank Greenberg in Hank's younger days. He hits a tremendously long ball, but it remains to be seen if he can hit that big league curve ball and the change-up . . . Good old Wally Moses is still on the Sox roster, and his many friends around the league hope he stays thereon. But how, with Williams, Spence, DiMaggio, Mele and Goodman around? . . . Earl Johnson is in the fold, leaving only Jack Kramer among the Sox A-1 pitchers still unsigned . . . Kramer is one of three Sox pitchers who winter in New Orleans. Others are lefty Mel Parnell, who should make the grade, and right-handed rookie Pete Modica, 25 years of age . . . Youngest player on the roster is pitcher Chuck Stobbs, who was born July 2, 1929 . . . Goodman was born in '26, rookie infielders Chuck Koney and George Strickland in '25 . . . Koney is the logical successor to Bobby Doerr. He can field with any second baseman in baseball, but doesn't hit the long one like Bobby. His 1947 average at Louisville was .292, and he made only four home runs.

BARNEY McCOSKY WANTS MORE DOUGH

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17 (AP)—Ferris Fain, fiery baseman, has signed up for the 1948 season with the Philadelphia Athletics but outfielder Barney McCosky is still a holdout.

Earle Mack, assistant manager of the A's, announced the return of Fain's signed contract and McCosky's rejection of the A's terms. Mack said Elmer Valo, Eddie Joost, Russ Christopher, Bob Savage and rookies Zebulon Eaton, Bob Wellman and Frank Bernardi still haven't signed.

However, Mack said, "I don't anticipate any real trouble. By the time we start spring training, I expect everyone to be signed. But there's nothing I can do now about McCosky. He'll have to deal directly with dad."

Connie Mack, the A's boseman, who is vacationing in Florida, plans to move into the A's pre-season quarters at West Palm Beach Feb. 26.

Golden Gloves Final Trials On at Lowell

The New England Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament, flavored by eight Massachusetts champions, will begin with the trials at the Lowell Auditorium, Lowell, tonight. The finals will be held tomorrow night.

The Lowell tournament will have a very important bearing on the N. E. AAU amateur boxing championships which will be held at the Boston Arena, March 22.

Many of the boys fighting tonight will represent N. E. in the National AAU championships at the Garden early in April.

Five of the eight Bay State champs are from Greater Boston.

Francis Collins, 19-year-old brother of professional Tommy Collins, South End, is a favorite in the bantamweight class. Francis is a Navy veteran and the defending champion.

Bill O'Neil, a senior at St. James High in Haverhill, gained the flyweight title by scoring a one round TKO over Mike Higgins, Boston. The featherweight representative is Mario Zullo, an Army vet from Chelsea. Joe McDonald, Charlestown lightweight, shows promise.

Norman Hayes, talented colored boy from Roxbury, may dominate the welterweight class. He is the youngster who thumped Dick Cabral, the Hawaiian champion, at the Garden last September.

Best in the show may be middleweight Dick Gallivan, Jamaica Plain. Dick is still a senior at Boston Technical High. He has had 24 fights and 21 wins. He won his Mass. title by knocking out Dave Walker, Roxbury.

The big boys are Paul Cook, light heavyweight from North Billerica, and heavyweight Rocco Marleigino, Brockton. Rocco, 22, is a former Brockton high football player. He also has had a baseball ground owned by the Chicago Cubs. JACK CONWAY, JR.

Pep Donates 10 Per Cent Of Purse to Runyon Fund

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17 (AP)—Promoter Clarence Kantrowitz has announced that all net profits from the Willie Pep-Humberto Sierra world's featherweight championship fight here Feb. 24 will be given to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Pep and Sierra will meet in the Orange Bowl next Tuesday night in a 15-round title fight, with Jack Dempsey as referee.

Pep's manager said the champion would donate 10 per cent of his $32,500 to the cancer fund, if Sierra's manager said the latter would give a portion of his 15 per cent.

Free Boxing Clinic Opens at Arena

Free boxing instruction will begin tonight at the Boston Arena gymnasium. The school, under the direction of Ben Levins, chairman of the BAAU development committee, will begin at 6:30 p. m. Leslie Baker, former N. E. amateur champion, will be the instructor.

The school is open to any youngster under 20 years of age. All interested must get a free registration card at the NEAAU offices, 294 Washington st., Boston, or at the gymnasium. No managers, managers, handlers, promoters or boxers will be allowed into the gym.

and prevent the public from getting a fair run for its money?

A—(Pappas) I do. I feel that if one gives a good, clean racing show there is no occasion to concern oneself with the mutuel handle. That takes care of itself if the public feels it is getting an even break out on the track.

Q—Will anything be done, Judge, to watch the jockeys when they go places at night? The records prove that improper associates at night often lead to "fixed" races the following afternoon.

A—Joe Ferrari will have plenty of men to watch the outside activities of the jockeys. The stewards usually are first to note improper riding, and they will notify Ferrari's men when they wish to get a full report on what the jockey under suspicion is doing when away from the track.

We feel that most jockeys are competent and honest as is proved by the records of the top men in the riding game, but we also must recognize the frailties in human nature, and guard our public against any improper practices.

(In tomorrow's Boston American, Jack Conway has an article in which Chairman Harry Allen of the Massachusetts Racing Commission reveals how his office will war against stimulating of race horses and other evil race track practices.)

World Ski Championships Sought for U. S. in 1950

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

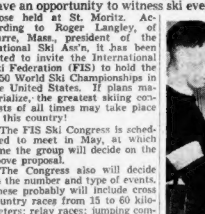
Thousands of skiers, who wished that they could have viewed the recent Winter Olympics in Switzerland, may have an opportunity to witness ski events which will parallel those held at St. Moritz. According to Roger Langley, of Barre, Mass., president of the National Ski Ass'n, it has been voted to invite the International Ski Federation (FIS) to hold the 1950 World Ski Championships in the United States. If plans materialize, the greatest skiing contests of all times may take place in this country!

The FIS Ski Congress is scheduled to meet in May, at which time the group will decide on the above proposal.

The Congress also will decide on the number and type of events. These probably will include cross country races from 15 to 60 kilometers; relay races; jumping competition; combined events; downhill races for men and women; slalom races for men and women; and giant slalom races for both sexes.

We hope that the World Championships will be run in America. They will do much to further a sport, which is already growing like a rolling snowba'l . . . And on home terrain, our boys and girls would have an excellent chance of winning the meet!

QUICK CHRISTIES: Bob Stevens and Hewitt Penthney are doing a fine job editing "Ski News" this season. But the lads are so busy, they won't be able to ski much until spring . . . Bob Johnson, head of the Newton Ski School, tells us that his instructors have been kept hopping weekends, at the Commonwealth Country Club slopes . . . That Eastern Inter-Club Ski League continues to hold its informal race meets. Winning squad, based on total points scored during the winter, will receive a trophy; while individual winners will be awarded prizes.



MARATHONERS—Jack Meissner and Ernst Penthney, 20, of Malden, get outfitted for 300-mile ski trip in Oregon Mountains. They'll leave tomorrow and will be gone 30 days. Meissner, 28, is a trapper.

Docusen Seeks 40th Fight Win in L. A. Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Maxie Docusen of New Orleans goes after his 40th straight pro win tonight when he meets Alfredo Escobar of Los Angeles in the 10-round main bout at Olympic Auditorium.

The Louisiana lightweight is undefeated since turning professional.

O'Connor Retains HLC Scoring Lead

MONTREAL, Feb. 17 (AP)—Buddy O'Connor of the New York Rangers continued today to enjoy a comfortable margin in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

The slender center picked up three points during the past week to increase his front-running total to 50, according to official statistics released by the circuit.

Max Bentley of the Toronto Maple Leafs, the defending champion, is second with 45 points.

Youthful Harry Lumley of the Detroit Red Wings continues to hog all goal-tending honors. The stocky netminder owns the best goals-against mark, 2.36 and also is tops in shutouts with six.

Bouncing Bill Barilko of Toronto remains the circuit's most penalized player. The young defenseman has spent 123 minutes in the cooler.

The leading scorers:

Player and Club	G	A	TP
O'Connor, New York	21	29	50
M. Bentley, Toronto	26	19	45

Valpey, As Boy, Attended 21 Schools in 17 States

By EDGAR HAYES

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 17—Art Valpey is returning to the district of his forefathers when he takes over his post as head football coach at Harvard March 1.

When the Valpeys left England back in the Revolutionary era they settled first at Lynn, Mass. One of the early Valpeys in the country, Captain Joseph, was captured off a privateer in the War of 1812. While in prison in England he wrote a diary which as a history of his family is an interesting piece of early Americana. It is in a Massachusetts museum.

Today Valpey left Ann Arbor to interview a couple of men he has under consideration as possible assistants. He didn't reveal who they were except to say they were Michigan graduates.

Valpey's family are descendants of the Valpeys who were prominent in northern Italy before migrating to England via France. Most of them live in this country now.

The new coach's father, Art Valpey, Sr., was a production engineer working for private contractors. In his youth he followed his father from town to town as his jobs called for. During his years in grammar school, Art attended 21 schools in 17 states.

Despite the many gaps in his education, he finished grade school without trouble and qualified for high school. However, he never stayed long enough in any grade school to get into athletics and that was a big disappointment to the youngster.

At high school time the elder Valpey decided to settle down so his son could prepare for college without the handicaps he faced getting his earlier learning.

Dayton was picked as the new home of the Valpeys and Art was duly registered in the Steele High School. The school of Earl ("Red") Blaik, now coach at Army.

Denied athletics and competition in grade school, young Art went all out for sports. Even then he planned to become a coach.

Football was first on the program for Art and in his second year he was regular halfback. During the winter he played center on the basketball team and in the spring ran the 440 in track.

He never forgot he wanted to be a coach, and to be a good one he'd need an education. No matter how much time he spent on athletics he didn't neglect his studies and after four years of high school he graduated fifth in a class of more than 300. He was awarded the University of Michigan trophy which goes to the athlete who made the best record in school and on the sports field among the six high schools in Dayton.

During his junior and senior years his team was unbeaten.

When it came time to go to college Art was visited by representatives of many schools and interested alumni. Ohio State always liked to get the best high school players from Ohio on its squad.

(Tomorrow, Harvard's new coach as a college player. The disappointments at Michigan and the lessons learned.)

BOBO TO STAY UP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Buck Newsom said today he expects to announce pretty soon that he has another job in baseball.

Asked by a reporter about the outlook, Newsom replied:

"Just tell 'em I've narrowed my choice down to 15 clubs, all in the majors. It may be any team except the Yankees."

If the talkative righthander does get a new job, it will be his 23rd in 19 years of major and minor league pitching.
